FOREWORD

THIS, the 35th annual edition of THE FILM DAILY Year Book of Motion Pictures, makes its appearance to serve a world-wide industry at a time when radical change is the order of the day.

Not since the Twenties when first sound, and then dialogue, worked a transformation in all arms of the film industry have those who produce, distribute and exhibit the American motion picture faced the exciting challenge that is now theirs as attention centers upon screen entertainment in new dimensions.

IT IS a challenge that is a spur to the initiative and the imagination of the showman, and a challenge which surely will be met as have those challenges which have gone before.

But it is not 3-D and wide screen processes alone which point the way to new horizons; there also is television, the influence of which will be felt the greater as the result of the merger of ABC with UPT and other developments in recent months.

AT SUCH A TIME, there is urgent need of the fullest information for the industry's guidance. It is with this in mind that your Year Book of 1953 has been written, compiled and edited. It explains, too, why so much of its contents is new.

To the many faithful collaborators and assistants, here and abroad, who have labored for months, our appreciation and our gratitude.

JACK ALICOATE
Editor-in-Chief

Not just claims but VISIBLE improvements distinguish the NEW 9 mm "Suprex" projector carbon in any 9-8 mm copper-coated high-intensity trim.

AND THAT'S NOT ALL! With an optimum current range of 65-75 amperes, the new 9 mm "Suprex" carbon and the 8 mm "Orotip" C negative carbon can be substituted directly for the 8 mm-7 mm carbon trim up to 70 amperes*. Merely install appropriate holders and guides in your present equipment and get:

- More light at slightly increased current
- Equal light at same current
- Lower carbon consumption and cost
- Better light distribution at all currents

*Above 70 amperes, see your theatre supply dealer for his equipment recommendations.

BUY WISE—DEMAND TO SEE THE DIFFERENCE!

The terms "Suprex" and "Orotip" are trade-marks of Union Carbide and Carbon Corporation

ASCAP MUSIC IS GOOD FOR BUSINESS

In 1953, music will be used in more pictures, will entertain more people, and will mean more money at the box office.

The use of music by entertainment enterprises of all kinds is increasing rapidly. This year, like last, more showmen will discover more ways in which ASCAP music can help them make greater profits.

ASCAP's simple licensing system puts the country's 2,500 songwriters and composers to work for business—inexpensively, promptly, efficiently. ASCAP's local offices are on the job to serve users of music—new clients as well as old customers—from Maine to California.

An ASCAP license is the most direct avenue to greater profits.

Is your Television set outmoded?

(THE NEXT FEW MINUTES WILL TELL YOU)

Here are eight pertinent questions you should ask yourself about your present television set. Get a pencil and answer them now.

YES NO

☐ ☐ Got a small picture? The new Zeniths have big 17, 21 and 27-in. pictures, fine grain pictures with sharp, clean contrasts.

☐ ☐ Is your cabinet an eyesore? Every new Zenith is a fine piece of furniture in its own right. 22 models to choose from, styles for every taste.

☐ ☐ Has your set a flat, tinny tone? Big speakers and precision-engineered FM sound systems make the sound of a new Zenith as matchless as the Zenith picture.

☐ ☐ Has your set an awkward tuning system? You tune a Zenith, both sound and picture, with just one knob. You get perfect reception on every channel, UHF or VHF, pre-tuned for your location.

YES NO

☐ ☐ Do you anticipate UHF troubles? Any Zenith ever built can be readied for UHF in 15 minutes without taking the chassis out of the cabinet, without converters.

☐ ☐ Does interference blur picture and sound? You can lock out interference with the Zenith Fringe Lock. It keeps the picture from wobbling and rolling, too!

☐ ☐ Got fringe area "snow?" When tested in 17 difficult fringe areas the new Zenith million-dollar chassis gave 25% better reception than any leading make tested against it.

☐ ☐ Do you get reflection and glare on the screen? A special development eliminates room reflection and glare at eye level on the new Zenith models.

IF you've answered "Yes" to 2 or more of the above questions, it's pretty good proof that your set is out of date—robbing you of a lot of TV enjoyment. And it means that you'd better make a bee-line for the nearest ZENITH TV DEALER.

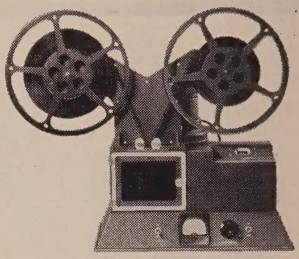
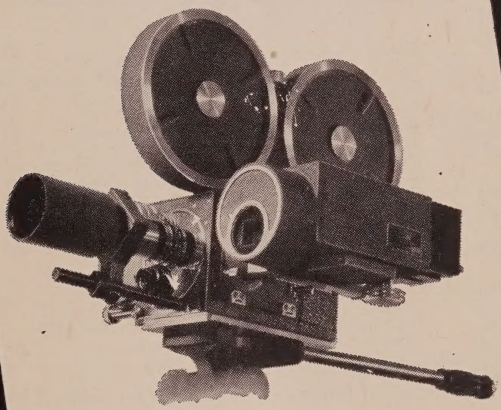
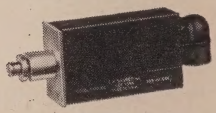
The 16 mm. sound-on-film portable Recording System combines the highest fidelity in 16 mm. recording practice with wide flexibility and simplicity of operation. The system is completely portable and is capable of recording either negative or direct positive variable area and variable density sound tracks.



The 16 mm. Film Phonograph unit provides the finest quality in high fidelity re-recording and playback. The unique optical system, giving an unusually narrow reproducing image with high light output, accomplishes a material reduction in photocell hiss—essential for quality reproduction.

THE NEW MAURER 16 MM CAMERA





The Model F Prime Recording Optical System and Galvanometer is a light modulating unit for recording sound photographically upon standard film. This system requires no special servicing or spare parts (other than recording lamp). Detailed instructions for mounting in your recorder are included.

The 16 mm. Professional Camera is the result of J. A. Maurer research and development in the 16 mm. field. Designed specifically for professional use, it is equipped with precision high-power focusing and the finest view-finder made.

Standard equipment includes: 235° dissolving shutter, automatic fade control, view-finder, sunshade and filter holder, one 400 foot gear-driven film magazine, a 60-cycle 115-volt synchronous motor, one 8-frame handcrank, power cable and a lightweight carrying case.

NEW MOTION PICTURE ERA LOOMS AT START OF 1953-D

By ERIC A. JOHNSTON
President, Motion Picture Association of America

THIS IS THE YEAR, I think, that will go down in motion picture history as 1953-D.

In the times ahead we will look back on this year as the beginning of a new era, a new age perhaps as significant as that period of a generation ago that saw the coming of sound to motion pictures.

Technical developments—third dimension—that create the illusion of reality as real as life itself, have long been a dream. Now the dream is no longer elusive and ephemeral.

A new age is here. It is here because the public welcomes it and wants it and is excited about it. And so is the industry.

IN MY YEARS IN THIS BUSINESS I've never known a time when such a spirit of aggressive determination has so permeated the industry.

This spirit—a sense of participating in the forging of a new and exciting future—has fired those who work in the laboratories, those in work in the studios, in the exchanges, in the theaters.

The industry has got off its status quo, and has gone to work.

It is in such periods as these that the industry has always made its greatest strides. We have never looked too well sitting back on our status quo.

NEW ERAS ALWAYS PRODUCE new problems. That's been true in all history. There will be problems, great and vexing and frustrating problems. But the promises are greater. So long as we keep our eyes on the promises, on the opportunities, we shall overcome the problems.

This is the threshold. This is the beginning. What we make of the opportunities is up to us.

1952: A Review

IT WAS A YEAR OF GREAT CHANGES FOR THE AMERICAN FILM INDUSTRY

By CHESTER B. BAHN
Editor, THE FILM DAILY

I—NEW DIMENSIONS, NEW VISTAS

NINETEEN FIFTY-TWO was distinguished by many outstanding developments, but the industry historian of the future, scanning the record, well may determine that the most momentous of all came on Sept. 30 when "This Is Cinerama," largely in Technicolor, had its first night at New York's Broadway Theater. In Cinerama, a process and technique originating with Fred Waller, the motion picture for the first time achieves a startling, even over-powering realism with its amazing screen illusion of both image and sound. The sophisticated first nighters, finding themselves the very participants—or so it seemed—in the screen action, which spanned a wide variety of individual subjects, reacted with shrieks, cheers, applause.

Cinerama, utilizes a three-lens camera in the photographing of its films and three projectors, each showing a third of the image, to transfer the picture to a screen roughly three times larger than the normal theater screen. Projectors are located across the back of the house, with one on the left providing the image for the right hand side of the screen, the right-hand projector flashing on the left of the surface, and a machine in the center projecting straight ahead. Because the screen is concave in shape and would reflect light to the opposite side, surface is made up of 1,100 slats, like a Venetian blind, to throw unwanted light behind the screen and reflect the desired light back at the audience.

● AN IMPORTANT PHASE of the Cinerama technique is the multi-dimensional sound, recorded on six sound tracks and reproduced through speakers located behind the screen, to the sides, and at the rear of the house. It was developed by Hazard E. Reeves.

Depth perception results partly from the wide angle of vision of the eye. It also depends on imagination and experience. The brain, having learned by experience to evaluate certain "visual clews," translates them subconsciously into 3-Dimensional pictures.

Cinerama does not claim 3-Dimension, but seeks to duplicate "peripheral vision"—what is seen from the corners of the human eye, surrounding the area of sharp focus of the human. The eyes' horizontal range is about 180 degrees, with Cinerama's range put at 146 degrees. Vertically, the eyes can see through an arc of about 90 degrees, while Cinerama's vertical range is 55 degrees.

The Cinerama camera has three 27 mm. lenses set at 48 degree angles. Each takes a third of the picture's total width on 35 mm. film with frames half again standard height. In projection, frames are advanced six perforations at a time instead of the usual four. Projectors are equipped with oversized reels holding 7,500 feet of film running up to 50 minutes. Convex screen used for the Broadway Theater inaugural measures 51 feet from tip to tip and is 25 feet high.

● CINERAMA'S INTRODUCTION will be slow—high cost, up to $90,000, was cited as one factor—it was indicated by its sponsors, and at the year end, it appeared that the first American cities outside of New York to see it would be Chicago, Detroit, Los Angeles, while the New Oxford Theater, Manchester, was announced in late December as the first British theater slated for an installation.

Meanwhile, Inventor Waller told THE FILM DAILY that television might be expected to come up with something akin to his brainchild—and using some of his basic patents—within 10 to 15 years. That technical improvements in Cinerama had made progress was disclosed on Dec. 10 when Century Projector Corp., which built the first equipment, disclosed it had received a large new order for projectors and accessory equipment. The announcement referred to "many refinements."

Production-wise, Cinerama Prods., Inc., holding exclusive five-year rights to make films using the Cinerama process, was still to announce its schedule as the year ended. It is, however, committed to make two features in 1953.

● TWO MONTHS (LACKING THREE DAYS) LATER, on Nov. 27, in the Los Angeles and Hollywood Paramount Theaters, Arch Oboler's "Bwana Devil," in Ansco Color, the first feature to be produced in the Natural Vision 3-Dimension process, had its own dual first night. The Coast trade and press reaction to the process—which makes necessary the wearing of Polaroid glasses by the viewer—and to the picture patently was mixed, but the public's was decidedly enthusiastic. There quickly was a stampede to the box office.

JOEL McCREA

Exhibitors, noting the latter, rushed for bookings, and in two weeks' time 230 dates in 225 cities were set—a record. Terms: 50-50. By the year end, "Bwana Devil" had opened in six additional cities. On the production side, Natural Vision's M. L. Gunzberg saw a dozen features forthcoming in 15 months' time, said that in time 3-Dimension television would come. Warners, on Dec. 19, announced it would be the first major studio to utilize Natural Vision for a feature, to be photographed in WarnerColor, first introduced also in 1952.

● On Christmas Day at the Telenews Theater, Chicago, the third entrant in the new dimension screen made its public bow. It was the British Stereo Techniques, briefly dubbed Tri-Optican on this side. Sol Lesser, the indefatigable impresario, had acquired rights in late October to a program of five shorts, produced with the S-T 3-Dimension process in England, and originally exhibited during 1951's Festival of Britain.

Lesser on Nov. 10, however, announced that his 3-Dimension production plans for 1953 included six 20-minute featurettes in color and a first feature, "The Runaway Train." Then, over the long Christmas week-end, Lesser disclosed that he had joined forces with Raphael C. Wolff to exploit still another 3-Dimension process, Stereo Cine, developed by Wolff and his associates. This enterprise was under the Thalia Prods. banner.

● As with Natural Vision and Stereo Techniques, the wearing of Polaroid glasses is necessary with Stereo-Cine.

While all these systems or processes have much in common, there are some marked differences. Like the human eye, the Natural Vision cameras are fixed, while Stereo-Techniques cameras are mobile to the extent that they can be brought closer together or pushed farther apart as occasion requires.

In both systems, the images are photographed simultaneously by two cameras from different locations. For exhibition, two projectors beam the pictures through polaroid filters on the screen, the pictures being not quite superimposed. The images are reflected back to the viewer, whose two polaroid lenses each accepts the image designed for its eye while rejecting the other.

II—TELEVISION

THE shadow of television lengthened markedly across the motion picture industry in 1952, and yet it was obvious that this was still only the beginning.

The 12-month period brought these highly significant developments:

On April 11, the Federal Communications Commission lifted the freeze on new television stations in effect since May 6, 1948 and authorized a total of 2,053 in 1,291 communities. The order also set in motion plans for orderly expansion of VHF and UHF video through the U. S. and its possessions, and included provision for 242 UHF channels for non-commercial educational stations. As the year ended, the Commission had authorized 169 of the new commercial and 10 of the new educational stations. On Dec. 31, 126 stations were on the air, an increase of 18 for the year.

The Commission late in the year concluded its public hearings on the American Broadcasting Co.-United Paramount Theaters merger petitions, and on Nov. 12, Examiner Leo Resneck recommended approval by the Commission. There was sharp opposition from the Broadcast Bureau, and the result was that the Commission on Dec. 11 set an oral hearing for Jan. 5. Meanwhile, there were warnings of Congressional antipathy.

The Commission after a series of postponements at long last on Oct. 20 opened the hearings on the industry's request, made through the MPAA and the NETTC, for the assignment of exclusive channels for theater television. When the initial phase ended on Oct. 27 there was a feeling that the industry had advanced its case. However, admittedly the second phase, with testimony to start on Jan. 12, will have the greater bearing on the Commission's decision, not expected for another year. Meanwhile, it was estimated that nationwide costs for a theater TV system might run upwards of $50,000,000. Obviously, theater TV, when fully developed, will be big business.

● Earlier in the year, there were these FCC developments bearing upon the several hearings:

On Jan. 20, by a memorandum opinion, the Commission denied the petitions of Partmar Corp. and WSAY, Rochester, N. Y. Four days later, the Commission denied the 20th Century-Fox petition to enlarge the issues in the theater television hearings as both unnecessary and premature.

But the Commission's most far-reaching decision came on Feb. 1 when it enlarged the issues in the hearings to place increased emphasis on the question of maintaining competition within theater TV, and on the qualifications of producers and exhibitors to furnish such service. Coming events were casting their shadows before.

There was a measure of relief, however, on July 16 when President Harry S. Truman signed the so-called McFarland bill making numerous changes in the nation's basic radio law. Importantly, the new law struck out the antitrust section, the non-discrimination section, and a provision that may affect the telecasting of films to theaters and to homes on a subscription basis.

● On Feb. 26, Comm. Eugene F. McDonald, Jr.'s Zenith Radio Corp., first in the field with a pay-as-you-see television system, Phonevision, successfully tested in Chicago in early 1951, filed a petition with the Commission asking it to add this as Section 3.642 to its rules:

"A television broadcasting station duly authorized to present programs may from time to time engage in providing a subscription program service in which a program signal is transmitted in coded form. A station, in providing such subscription program service, may utilize only a system or systems specifically approved by the Commission."

Necessary changes in the Commission's "standards of good engineering practice concerning TV broadcast stations," were also sought in the petition, and a public hearing was requested.

Skiatron, with the Subscriber-Vision, and International Telemeter Corp., with its Telemeter system, had no less a stake in the Zenith move, but as the year ended, the Commission still was to say yes or no. Meanwhile, both Skiatron and Telemeter deferred until 1953 their planned public tests, the former planned for New York and possibly Philadelphia, the latter for Palm Springs, Calif. Film company reluctance to provide needed product was a Skiatron high hurdle.

As June ended, Skiatron entered into a joint working agreement with Hanovia Chemical & Manufacturing Co., which acquired a minority stock interest. Skiatron during the Summer also marketed stock to meet the costs of its projected 90-day public test. Telemeter in late August closed a deal with Famous Players Canadian by which the Paramount subsidiary acquired exclusive Canadian rights to manufacture and distribute Telemeter equipment. The arrangement was a natural one: Paramount owns 50 per cent of Telemeter.

● On June 25, President Spyros P. Skouras of 20th Century-Fox, with honest pride unveiled to the New York press the Swiss theater television system to which CBS color had been adapted. Earlier, there had been private demonstrations for company stockholders and VIP's. The reaction was enthusiastic all the way around. In short order, a confident Skouras was predicting that TV distribution of films was a matter of only five to seven years away. At the year-end, the necessary engineering work for manufacture of Eidophor equipment was well underway at General Electric. When theater installations would come was uncertain, but Eidophor definitely was on its way as a factor to be reckoned with.

● The year saw a number of television "firsts" in the film industry. They ranged all the way from a theater TV presentation of a performance of the famed Metropolitan Opera's "Carmen" on Dec. 11, arranged by Nathan L. Halpern's ambitious TNT, to the first drive-in theater utilization of theater TV for the Walcott-Marciano heavyweight championship fight on Sept. 23 by the S-3 Drive-in at Rutherford, N. J. The result of the latter led to a jubilant Philip Smith, president of Smith Management Corp., Boston, owner of the S-3, to see the day when drive-ins alone will gross $10,000,000 a night with the right TV attraction. The S-3 took in $14,000, turned away 5,000 cars. Definitely, something new was being added to exhibition's income sources.

TNT, which booked the Walcott-Marciano fight, held in Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium, into 50 theaters in 30 cities, subsequently announced a total paid attendance of 120,000 and an aggregate $400,000 gross. "Carmen" was transmitted to 31 theaters in 21 cities, drew an estimated 50,000 who paid about $125,000. Scale ranged up to $7.20 (at the Guild Theater, New York, which, however, cut the price when the demand fell off).

TNT made another important industry contribution when on Oct. 21 it disclosed it had signed a contract with James Lees & Sons for the first Coast to Coast industrial use of theater TV. The historic telecast took place on Dec. 9 when Lees dealers and distributors, seated in theaters in 17 cities, attended the unique sales convention. It was termed by principals and observers generally a success—and appraised by alert exhibitors as an important new revenue source during non-operating hours, now well nigh valueless.

● That TNT would have competition in this field, and perhaps elsewhere, too, was made plain on Nov. 28 when formation of Teleconference, Inc., was disclosed by Stanley Baar, Aaron Feinsot, Thomas W. Casey and Gerald Dickler. However, its inaugural event, a Bendix sales conference tying together theaters in 40 cities on Dec. 30, was suddenly cancelled after the Lees telecast.

Quietly on Dec. 10 at Lancaster, Pa., color television was employed for the first time to present a commercial product to an Armstrong Cork sales meeting. Transmission was a short two miles by coaxial cable and beamed microwave signal, and the program was seen on only 16 color receivers equipped with 10-inch tubes. Pictures were magnified to 12 by 14 inches. The color cameras and other special equipment were loaned by the Smith, Kline & French Labs.

of Philadelphia which had first employed them in 1945 for color telecasts of surgical operations. Color television, obviously, will add materially to the effectiveness of industrial theater TV—this was the conclusion reached at Lancaster.

● THERE WERE OTHER "FIRSTS," too, which rated more than passing attention. Among them were:

First video network programming of a film premiere came on Dec. 22 when ceremonies attending the launching of 20th Century-Fox's "Stars and Stripes Forever" at the Roxy were carried as a half-hour live show on WJZ-TV and other ABC television stations in Philadelphia, Chicago, Atlanta and Cleveland. On Christmas eve, kinescopes of the program were telecast in Detroit, Baltimore.

The first newsreel specifically produced and edited for children, "Adventure in News for Young America," made by Movietone News for 20th-Fox syndication, was telecast initially Dec. 6 in 10 cities with the International Shoe Co. of St. Louis as sponsor.

Norman Elson's Embassy at 46th St. became the first newsreel theater to install theater television.

Paramount Pictures, which of all major studios may be said to have the paramount interest in television, witness its wide holdings, on Dec. 18 announced that it would enter TV film production early in 1953 through its wholly owned subsidiary, Paramount Television Productions, Inc. This also was a "first" of sorts in that previous production had been restricted to kinescopes. The actual production of Paramount's TV films, however, will be by Edward J. and Harry Lee Danziger, New York studio owners and independent producers; their Paramount commitment: a series of 39 half-hour dramas.

● BUT IF PARAMOUNT, whose president, Barney Balaban, early in February told the FCC frankly, "Television can have Paramount pictures when it can pay," saw such TV film production as attractive, another major company, after taking the plunge, was less certain. United World Films, wholly owned Universal subsidiary, having completed 12 half-hour films for "The Fighting Man" series, had its doubts about cost factors and in late December deferred further production pending a recheck. The UWF TV films were scheduled for release through Decca Records, which "owns" Universal.

In early July, on the ground that union demands were too onerous, Republic suspended television production.

● OTHER MORE IMPORTANT TELEVISION developments of the year in chronological order:

As March came in, Bing Crosby Enterprises, expanding further in video, announced the formation of Lancer Prods. to make telepix, and in Montreal, Rediffusion, Inc., a British firm, began "vended television" tests.

Pathe Industries on March 4 announced the incorporation of Pathe Television Corp. to finance and distribute syndicated film programs for television, but was marking time at the year end.

On March 18, formation of George Bagnall & Associates, Inc., to produce and distribute TV films was disclosed in Hollywood.

J. Robert Rubin, vice-president and general counsel, told Loew's stockholders on April 29 that the company's directors were giving consideration to making application for TV station permits. None had been filed at the year end.

● AS MAY NEARED THE MID-WAY MARK, Federal Judge Ben Harrison in Los Angeles in refusing Gene Autry's application for an injunction to halt licensing for TV exhibition by Republic and its subsidiary, Television Prods., Inc. of some 60 old Westerns in which he starred held the Autry position to be "untenable and unfair." Autry's counsel later filed an appeal.

On May 15, it was announced that the New York Film Board of Trade had established a motion picture and television committee; object: to strengthen the city's telepix position.

On June 9, it was announced that Screen Gems, wholly owned by Columbia, had landed a prime contract for the production of 39 half-hour telepix for Ford sponsorship on NBC-TV.

On June 16, it was disclosed that the Mutual Broadcasting System TV net planned to institute a film production and distribution department.

The NPA on June 24 eased the ban on the manufacture of color TV for theater and home use.

On June 26, theaters in New York and nine other cities were linked for a Civil Defense telecast; it was the initial large scale beaming of an educational program to film theaters.

Telecasts of the Republican and Democratic national conventions in Chicago in July saw the motion picture box office benefiting as televiewers sought a change in entertainment.

● ANOTHER COURT DECISION of great importance came Aug. 5 when Federal Judge Harry C.

Westover in Los Angeles ruled that TV distribution of films originally produced for major theatrical release is not a "commercial practice" within the meaning of a 1948 contract between United Artists and the Nasser Brothers. The decision thus clarified the status of residual TV rights in films still in theatrical distribution by major companies.

On Aug. 18, it was announced that Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., had signed a $900,000 deal with NBC for production of 39 half-hour telepix in England.

On Nov. 20, the Canadian Government disclosed it would license private television broadcasting stations except in Toronto and Montreal, thus ending the CBS monopoly. One influencing factor: American telecasts ignore the Dominion-American boundry line.

WCBS-TV on Dec. 16 announced it had closed a deal with Hollywood Television Service, Inc., Republic's wholly-owned subsidiary, for the exclusive first-run TV rights in New York to 104 features, some produced since 1945. It was the largest deal ever negotiated between a film company and a video station, was on the fire six months.

On Dec. 23, Chromatic Television Laboratories, Paramount affiliate, disclosed its tri-color television tube had been developed to the point it is ready for manufacture and marketing as soon as the conflicts between the NBC and CBS color systems are resolved.

Charles E. Denney, Jr., joined Paramount TV Prods. as the year neared its end to conduct a market survey. Denney formerly was an NBC account executive.

At the year end, Bing Crosby Enterprises raised the curtain on advances made in television magnetic tape recording, held out strong hope that commercial production would result by the end of 1953.

There were two other late December developments of special interest, both involving finance. The Bankers Trust Co. expressed readiness to engage in television financing, both as regards film production and new stations. Thereafter came announcement that Matthew Fox's Western Television Corp. had secured a $1,525,000 loan, the first of such magnitude between a commercial bank and a TV film distributor.

On the general television scene, the more important developments included: the inaugural of the new CBS Television City in Hollywood in November; first tenancy of Du Mont's Tele-Center in New York by Du Mont network departments, a December development; a marked increase in the number of shows on film—an obvious victory for Hollywood—and a lamentable disposition on the part of video producers to indulge in copycatitis, a Hollywood malady which is always dangerous, frequently disastrous.

III—ARBITRATION

AT the industry four corners where the paths of distribution and exhibition cross, there was no hotter topic in 1952 than arbitration. The question of whether or not the industry would have an arbitration system to replace that which expired with the original consent decree in the Government's suit in equity against Paramount, et al, remained unanswered at the year-end, and there was no certainty that 1953 quickly would bring an answer.

Yet, patently, both distribution and exhibition were committed to the principle of arbitration, and together had laboriously engaged in its exploration, either singly or jointly, throughout the 12 months.

And, to accept the word of some, briefly on Aug. 20, industry arbitration was an actuality as legal conferees representing distribution and exhibition accepted for reference to their principals the draft of a proposed arbitration system which had been written by Abram F. Myers, National Allied's board chairman and general counsel.

Subsequently, counsel for distributors saw fit to make certain changes in the Myers draft, both as to phraseology and text, and to append thereto a complementary conciliation plan. On Oct. 8, it was announced that the revised draft had been approved by the heads of the 11 companies which would be distributor principals in the system. However, the door was plainly left open for the consideration of any changes which might be advanced by any of the five exhibitor associations participating in the arbitration parleys.

These were: Allied States Association, the Theater Owners of America, Western Theater Owners, and New York's MMPTA and ITOA.

Meanwhile, there were warning rumbles of Allied dissatisfaction with the changes made in the so-called Aug. 29 draft, as well as notice that TOA members desired some further alterations. While TOA was in convention assembled in Washington, an effort was made by representatives of distribution and exhibition to iron out the wrinkles; it failed. Thereafter, although the TOA action was favorable, the fat was in the fire insofar as Allied was concerned.

● THE DENOUEMENT came at the Allied convention's closing session in Chicago on Nov. 19 when the board's rejection of the draft was sustained on the grounds that it failed to meet the directors' "statement of policy" on distributor trade and sales practices earlier adopted by the convention.

The board's rejection, Myers told the convention, was for these two stated reasons: 1, it makes no provision for the arbitration of film rentals and 2, it contains provisions not held to be in the exhibitor's interest.

The board's report went into specifics, was critical of provisions dealing with pre-releases, competitive bidding and limitations on awards.

But it had kind words for provisions on one-way arbitration, (i.e. only exhibitors as complainants), clearance, runs, competitive bidding, forcing pictures, contract violations and conciliation.

It was not until Dec. 9 that the texts of the two drafts were finally released for publication. An objective study brought the surprising discovery: they were close on those issues deemed controversial.

Allied insistance upon inclusion of film rentals among the issues subject to arbitration was no surprise. It reflected an attitude fully spelled out by the board in May.

On Dec. 18, President Eric A. Johnston of the MPAA, who had issued the invitations for the first April 22 conference on arbitration, met with heads of distribution to discuss the prevailing impasse. There was a reaffirmation of a readiness to discuss draft changes desired by exhibitors, an indication that the pre-release issue could be resolved. But it was obvious that distribution never would concede film rental arbitration.

Would Allied and the Western Theater Owners, the erstwhile Pacific Coast Conference, which had followed Allied's lead in spurning the proferred distributor draft, be satisfied with less than film rental arbitration?—that was the question left unanswered on Dec. 31.

● TOA'S BOARD, meeting in Los Angeles Jan. 28, amended and then approved a plan for an arbitration system drafted by its general counsel, Herman M. Levy. It provided for a Government tie in such a system through appointment by the Secretary of Commerce of a $25,000-a-year National Administrator, with offices in the nation's capital.

This provision was conspicuous by its absence when the several later drafts were formulated. The initial April 22-25 arbitration conference at the Hotel Astor saw reasonably rapid progress, and optimism was general upon adjournment. The conference reconvened on June 16 after a seven-week recess, received a 28-page draft formulated by a committee headed by TOA's Levy, adjourned three days later after appointment of a new 10-man committee to complete the drafting chore. Thereafter the going got rough . . . or perhaps the word is rougher.

On July 21, distribution, at a meeting with President Johnston, moved to remove one roadblock, and THE FILM DAILY'S headline the next day read: "Bidding Concession Revives Arbitration."

The Continuations Committee assembled in New York on Aug. 4-5, agreed upon the need for a complementing conciliation system, and designated a legal drafting committee to prepare the final draft. The work was completed on Aug. 21, but there was full warning that this "final" draft was anything but final and must run the gauntlet not only of distribution and exhibition, but Government as well.

Meanwhile, the highly individualistic Samuel Goldwyn had served notice flatly in a New York interview on Sept. 23 that he would have no part of arbitration even if his distribution outlet, RKO, was to become a party to such a system.

Question: Would other independent producers take a similar position?

IV—CORPORATE AND EXECUTIVE

NO 12-month period in the last decade, and perhaps longer, was more productive of corporate and executive changes fraught with both drama and import to the industry-at-large than 1952. Here are highlights:

RKO Pictures Corp. and its subsidiaries, headed by RKO Radio Pictures, Inc., had two presidents and three board chairmen in three months as influences inside and out of the trade exerted themselves following sale by Howard R. Hughes on Sept. 23 of his 1,013,420 shares of common stock carrying control of RKO to a group comprising Ralph Stolkin, the latter's father-in-law, Abraham L. Koolish, Ray Ryan, Edward Burke, Jr., and Sherrill C. Corwin for $7,093,940, a price well above the current market value. The down payment was $1,500,000 with the terms calling for payment in full to be completed by Jan. 1, 1955.

On Oct. 2, the Stolkin group moved firmly into control. Stolkin assumed the presidency, replacing Ned E. Depinet, retained as consultant. Arnold M. Grant, who drafted the purchase agreement for the Stolkin group, was elected board chairman by the re-constituted directorate.

In short order, the Stolkin regime moved to effect reorganization on the operating executive level. It was announced Arnold M. Picker would become executive vice-president, leaving United Artists to do so. RKO veteran Charles Boasberg was named general sales manager, and Walter Branson, another veteran, assistant. William Zimmerman succeeded J. Miller Walker as head of the legal department, Harry M. Pimstein of the legal department was named assistant to the board chairman, and Richard Condon was the choice for director of advertising, publicity and exploitation. A few days later, Alfred W. Crown resigned his Samuel Goldwyn Prods. post to become foreign sales manager.

This re-shuffling had these sequels: Robert M. Mochrie, vice-president in charge of domestic distribution, moved to Goldwyn as vice-president; Phil Reisman, vice-president in charge of foreign distribution, joined the Joseph P. Kennedy Industries as vice-president.

● MEANWHILE, STORM CLOUDS had been gathering, and finally broke on the pages of the financial bible, the Wall St. Journal, which, in a series of articles, concerned itself with the past business backgrounds of the Stolkin group. The overall picture drawn was not complimentary, which perhaps is an under-statement. As a result, on Oct. 22, Grant announced the resignations of Stolkin, Koolish and William Gorman as directors, and of the first named as president; Gorman represented Ryan on the board.

On Nov. 13, Grant announced his resignation as board chairman; the reason: rejection of his two director nominees by directors Corwin and Burke. This left the two constituting the board of the parent RKO corporation. Picker's resignation was announced simultaneously, and he returned to UA.

To fill gaps on the RKO Radio Pictures board, the directors on the same day elected Boasberg, William Zimmerman and Ross Hastings, all with long RKO service.

Almost from the time that the first Wall St. Journal article rocked the industry, there were reports that the Stolkin group was disposed to step out through sale of the stock. Rumors as to deals were less than a dime a dozen. Some had factual basis. The negotiations failed in each instance and on Nov. 22, Stolkin sought a meeting with Hughes concerning the company's future. For three weeks, Stolkin and Burke conferred with Hughes in Hollywood. As midnight neared on Dec. 12, the announcement came. Hughes through a re-constituted board would re-assume management control, but the Stolkin group would remain RKO's largest stockholder. On the new board of the parent company: Hughes, Noah Dietrich, erstwhile board chairman; J. Miller Walker, previously a vice-president, general counsel and director; Maurice H. Bent, senior partner of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Beane, and Burke, Corwin's resignation as director and officer came simultaneously.

In sequence came Bent's declination, the naming of Houston banker A. D. Simpson to replace him and the election of Hughes as board chairman, followed by the return of J. Miller Walker as vice-president, secretary, general counsel and of C. J. Tevlin as vice-president in charge of studio operations and the election of Charles G. Drayton as assistant treasurer and assistant secretary.

● THREE OTHER IMPORTANT INDUSTRY CORPORATIONS experienced presidential changes in 1952, while three other companies, including one destined to attain a high degree of importance, gained new board chairmen.

On July 15, announcement was made that Milton R. Rackmil had been elected president of Universal to replace Nate J. Blumberg who was elected board chairman. This reflected ownership of controlling stock interest in Universal by Decca Records, also headed by Rackmil. On March 3, Universal had reported to the SEC that Decca held 27.4 per cent of its outstanding common, plus 15 per cent of warrents. On June 19 came the announcement that Decca had acquired the 134,375 shares of Universal held by J. Arthur Rank to bring its holdings up to 42 per cent. A Decca prospectus filed with the SEC, subsequently disclosed that the company had paid $7,037,425 for its initial Universal stock acquisitions. Rackmil executed a seven-year employment contract with Universal calling for $1,538.50 weekly, then executed a new contract with Decca which reduced his salary by 50 per cent.

Cinecolor experienced two presidential changes during the year. The first came on Jan. 24 when Karl Herzog was named to replace John D. Derr, resigned, and the second on Nov. 12 which saw W. R. Yarnall designated both president and general manager, reflected the passing of control of the company through purchase of debentures, to the Donner Corp. of Philadelphia, announced on Aug. 21.

On March 11, Russell J. Downing was elected president and managing director of Radio City Music Hall; the presidency was relinquished by Gus S. Eyssell, who continues as board chairman. The Music Hall board at the same time elected Irving Evans vice-president and assistant managing director, Russell Harkert, a vice-president, and Charles Hacker manager of operations. On Nov. 6, Downing was elected to the board of Rockefeller Center operations, of which Eyssell is president.

● THE COMPANIES to designate new board chairmen were United Artists, Cinerama, Eastman Kodak and General Precision Equipment. The UA post on Nov. 11 went to Robert S. Benjamin, one of the management group headed by Arthur B. Krim, which by bringing the company into the black in the first year of its regime received full voting rights to 100 per cent of the outstanding stock for the next nine years. The profit-making feat, a modern industry miracle, gave the management group 8,000 shares, or 50 per cent, at "a very attractive price." To take the officership, Benjamin resigned from the Universal board.

Louis B. Mayer's election to the Cinerama Prods. Corp. chairmanship was announced Oct. 17, and it was announced he would be active in its production program in association with Merian C. Cooper on loan from Argosy as general manager in charge of production. Mayer, for decades head of M-G-M production, succeeded Lowell Thomas, who assumed the vice-chairmanship.

Thomas J. Hargrave, long president of Eastman Kodak, was advanced to the board chairmanship on May 20, succeeding the retiring Perley S. Wilcox. Albert K. Chapman moved up to the presidency, Donald McMaster was advanced to general manager.

On Oct. 8, Hermann G. Place was elected to the board chairmanship of General Precision Equipment of which he remained president. Earle G. Hines retired as chairman, but continued as consultant. On Oct. 23, it was announced Hines would join the board of the new National Theaters Corporation, formed to meet 20th-Fox consent decree mandate.

● A MAJOR COMPANY RUN-DOWN shows these highlights:
Louis Goldstein in mid-February resigned as managing director for Columbia International to join Hygo Television Films as vice-president. On Feb. 20 Columbia's stockholders approved new employment contracts for Irving Briskin and Nate Spingold. In late March, upon the expiration of his contract, Arthur A. Schmidt, Columbia's advertising, publicity and exploitation director, left the company, becoming vice-president of Public Relations Management Corp.

On Oct. 28, Jerry Wald was named vice-president and executive producer of Columbia. Wald moved over from RKO upon the expiration of the Wald-Krasna commitment. In May, Wald purchased Norman Krasna's 50 per cent interest in Wald-Krasna Prods., Inc. In early November, Leo Jaffe was elected a vice-president of Columbia International.

John Mitchell, upon his resignation as vice-president of United Artists Television in early December, joined Screen Gems, wholly owned Columbia subsidiary, as vice-president. At the same time, Ralph Cohn, Screen Gems executive, was named a vice-president and general manager. Will Baltin, a Screen Gems executive, resigned in late December to join unidentified New Jersey industrialists in the formation of a new corporation in the TV field.

● EXTENTION OF THE EMPLOYMENT CONTRACT of Samuel Eckman, Jr., chairman and managing director of M-G-M, Ltd. was announced by Loew's on April 22. On July 9, an economic adjustment program was made public by the company. It called for one-year salary cuts for MGM officials and executive staff members receiving more than $1,000 a week, as well as department consolidation and reduction in the number of contract producers, directors and writers. In late October, the resignation of John Joseph as Eastern publicity manager of Metro was announced, Dan Terrell, exploitation head, taking over while retaining the exploitation assignment.

● PARAMOUNT'S ACQUISITION of the familiar 50 per cent in Vistascope Corp. of America, headed by Sol Lesser, was announced on April 13.

Paramount's distribution contract with Cecil B. DeMille Prods., Inc., expired, with DeMille announcing he would dissolve his company. Nonetheless, there was nothing to indicate DeMille epics would find other than Paramount release.

● RKO RADIO EXECUTED a new five-year distribution contract with Samuel Goldwyn Prods. on April 20. As June ended, appointment of William Zimmerman as assistant to Robert Mochrie was announced by RKO. On July 10, the resignation of Harry Michaelson as president of RKO Pathe was disclosed. With the advent of the Stolkin regime, RKO experienced several important staff changes in the advertising, publicity and exploitation departments. Ben H. Grimm succeeded veteran S. Barret McCormick as advertising head. Leon Brandt left Lopert Film Distributing Corp. to replace veteran Terry Turner in charge of exploitation and Kay Norton joined to take over the publicity managership from Don Prince. On Nov. 25, the resignation of Ernest L. Scanlon as studio manager to become treasurer of Cinerama Prods. was announced. On Dec. 3, Edward J. Smith, Jr., was named the company's assistant foreign sales manager.

● APPOINTMENT OF WILLIAM C. GEHRING as executive assistant sales manager of 20th-Fox was announced on Jan. 7; at the same time, Edwin W. Aaron and Arthur Silverstone were named assistant general sales managers. Appointment of Abe Goodman as advertising manager, succeeding Jonas Rosenfield, resigned, came as March faded. In early August, Stirling Silliphant resigned as Eastern publicity manager to enter independent production via Federated Films. His successor was Edward E. Sullivan. Subsequently appointment of Edward Solomon as assistant publicity manager was announced.

ALFRED HITCHCOCK

● JOSEPH ENDE JOINED UNITED ARTISTS as assistant controller as January ended. On Feb. 11 appointment of Francis M. Winikus as national director of advertising, publicity and exploitation was announced. It was followed by the appointment of Roger H. Lewis as advertising manager, of Alfred H. Tamarin as assistant national director, and of Mort Nathanson as publictiy director. On Sept. 18, the election of President Arthur B. Krim to the board of J. Arthur Rank's Odeon Theaters, Ltd. was announced. It marked the first time that United Artists with its substantial holdings in the Rank circuit received board representation. On Dec. 1, Bernard G. Kranze was appointed general sales manager for the United States and Canada. With the resignation the following day of John Mitchell as vice-president of United Artists Television, George T. Shupert, formerly vice-president of Peerless Television, joined the UA subsidiary as vice-president and general manager.

● UNIVERSAL'S BOARD in mid January approved one year extentions of the employment contracts of Alfred E. Daff, Leon Goldberg, J. J. O'Conner, Adolf Schimel and Maurice A. Bergman and a new two-year contract for Edward Muhl, vice-president and studio operation's manager. On Nov. 12 it was disclosed that Daff had been signed to a further new seven-year contract as the company's executive vice-president. New term contracts with the other top executives were being drafted at the year end. On May 8, the resignation of William J. German as a Universal director, was announced. The election of Daff as executive vice-president was announced on July 16, and as July ended President Rackmil disclosed that plans to merge the picture company with Decca Records had been dropped. Resignation of J. Arthur Rank's three representatives on the Universal board—himself, Robert S. Benjamin and G. I. Woodham-Smith—were announced on Nov. 24. There were no replacements.

● IN EARLY FEBRUARY, Warners announced that hereafter vice-president Mort Blumenstock would headquarter at the Burbank Studios although the advertising, publicity and exploitation departments would remain at the New York home office. Resignation of Jacob Wilk as Eastern story editor was disclosed April 8.

● REPUBLIC'S ACQUISITION of Major Film Laboratories Corp. in New York was belatedly disclosed by Herbert J. Yates on Feb. 20.

● MONOGRAM ON SEPT. 24 announced that henceforth it would produce only films bearing the Allied Artists designation, retaining the name Monogram only for corporate purposes. Walter Liebler resigned from United Artists to become Monogram International's assistant treasurer in December.

● THE YEAR BROUGHT two stockholder proxy fights. A minority group headed by David J. Greene succeeded in winning two places on the RKO Theaters board. Elected were Greene and A. Louis Oresmon. The management, headed by President Sol A. Schwartz with four seats, retained control.

The second minority stockholders contest was in Trans-Lux, but the move headed by George G. Mason failed, the Harry Brandt-Milton Weisman management remaining firmly in the saddle.

● OTHER OF THE MORE IMPORTANT developments on the corporate side included these: Eastman Kodak, as the year began, named William J. German exclusive distributor of its professional motion picture films and German formed W. J. German, Inc., incorporating both in Delaware and California.

In mid-January, United Paramount Theaters purchased a 50 per cent interest in Microwave Associates, Inc., of Boston.

Resignation of Nick Tronolone as vice-president of Pathe Laboratories was disclosed on Feb. 20.

Election of Sidney M. Markley as vice-president of United Paramount Theaters was announced on March 12.

● ON MAY 4, STOCKHOLDERS OF PATHE INDUSTRIES approved a change in the corporation name to Chesapeake Industries, Inc.

On June 17, upon the expiration of his five-year contract, Budd Rogers stepped down as executive vice-president of Realart Pictures.

Election of Charles M. Amory as vice-president in charge of the West Coast Pathe Laboratories was announced July 15.

On July 17, President Sol A. Schwartz of RKO Theaters named William W. Howard head of operations.

JOSEPH L. MANKIEWICZ

As September ended, W. C. Stober resigned as general sales manager of the General Register Corp. to join the Burroughs Adding Machine Co.

● In early October, Spyros S. Skouras was elected president of Skouras Theaters Corp., succeeding his uncle, Charles P. Skouras, the latter becoming board chairman.

Formation of International-United Productions, Inc., was announced Dec. 9 by Walter Gould and David Coplan to distribute foreign films.

The Jefferson Amusement Co. in mid-December announced the purchase of the stock interests held by United Paramount Theaters in the Texas circuit.

On Dec. 16, Eastman Kodak's board elected Archbold Robinson treasurer to succeed Marion B. Folsom, who resigned to become under-secretary of the Treasury in the new Eisenhower Administration.

● In the field of corporate finance, there were these developments among others:

In mid-January, Monogram and Allied Artists signed a one-year revolving credit loan agreement with the Security First National Bank of Los Angeles.

In late February, Warner Bros. appropriated $10,000,000 as a stock retirement fund.

In early March, Cinerama, Inc., made a public offering of $1,000,000 in debentures; the price $100 each.

In mid-July, 20th-Fox borrowed $7,500,000 from six banks for debt refunding purposes.

Monogram during the year continued to purchase its exchanges; at the year end, the company owned 16, a half interest in two others. A contrasting dispersal policy, however, was adopted by Robert L. Lippert for Lippert branches.

V—U. S. VERSUS INDUSTRY

ON no less than three fronts did the Federal Government through the Department of Justice move anew directly against the film industry in 1952. Two of the three antitrust suits were filed in April. On the second day of that month, the Department instituted antitrust litigation in Terre Haute, Ind., naming as defendants these five Midwestern circuits: Alliance Theater Corp. of Chicago; Fourth Ave. Amusement Co., of Louisville, Grand Theater Corp., Terre Haute Amusement, Inc., and Tri-Theaters Corp., all Indiana corporations. The charge: that the five defendants participated in a pool monopolizing first-run exhibition in Terre Haute and that they further had combined to purchase the only independent first-run theater in that city. Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison, chief of the Department's antitrust division, noted that the case "attests the Government's determination to resist the recreation of practices which we believed were outlawed in the antitrust suit against the defendants in the well known Paramount case."

On April 28, the Department filed in Federal Court in New York a civil antitrust suit against National Screen Service and the eight major companies. The Government asks that NSS be enjoined from restraining or interfering with the use by exhibitors of trailers and accessories made or distributed by others, and enjoined further from acquiring any manufacturer of accessories, any poster exchanges, and any distributor of trailers. While a Government spokesman asserted the Department had been studying the situation for several years and had made investigations based on complaints, NSS subsequently was stoutly defended by certain exhibitor associations and exhibitor leaders.

● The Government's major blow, however, did not come until July 22 when the Department of Justice filed a civil antitrust complaint in Federal Court in Los Angeles. The complaint charged 12 companies engaged in production and/or distribution with conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce in 16 mm. features in violation of Section 1 of the Sherman Act. The defendants: Twentieth-Fox, New York; Warner Bros. Pictures and Warner Bros. Picture Distributing Corp., New York; RKO Radio, New York; Republic Pictures, New York; Republic Prods., North Hollywood; Columbia Pictures, New York; Screen Gems, a wholly owned Columbia subsidiary, New York; Universal Pictures, New York; United World Films, a wholly owned Universal subsidiary, New York; Films, Inc., New York, and Pictorial Films, New York.

Named in the action as a co-conspirator, but not designated a defendant, is the Theater Owners of America, one of the country's two national exhibitor associations.

The suit which came without advance warning was quickly appraised by the industry as essentially a Government move to "unfreeze" the huge reservoir of features in film vaults for television exhibition, although the complaint charged that in addition to withholding 16 mm. features from video, the defendants also refused to allow the exhibition of such films within 10 miles of any established theater and placed severe limitations on their exhibitions in schools, churches, hospitals and USO centers.

Accordingly, the Government asked the court to enjoin the defendants from entering into any agreements protecting theater owners from competition from exhibitors of 16 mm. feature films except that reasonable clearance periods between runs may be granted.

It also requested the court to enter an order directing each of the defendants to grant unrestricted leases and licenses for the exhibition, including telecasting, of such of the feature films under the control of any of the defendants as the court deems necessary to dissipate fully the consequences of the alleged illegal combination and conspiracy.

Exhibitor reaction was quick and bitter, with some leaders seeing in the suit a manifestation of politics and the bias which politics is apt to engender. The press stood firmly with exhibitors. Protests went to the White House, to the Attorney General, to members of the Congress. There were meetings, conferences. But the suit still was on the docket at the year-end. Question: Will the new Eisenhower administration prosecute, or take a further look, then perhaps nole pros in 1953?

● IN THE WAKE of the Government's antitrust suit came two filed by distributors of 16 mm. pictures against distributors of 35 mm. product and four 16 mm. distributors with 35 mm. company ties. Carl Kuntz, a Philadelphia distributor, instituted the first against Paramount, Loew's, Columbia and its subsidiary, Screen Gems; Universal and its subsidiary, United World Films; RKO Pictures, Warners, Republic, Pictorial Films, which, distributes 16 mm. versions of United Artists and Eagle Lion, and Films, Inc., which similarly releases for Warners and 20th Century-Fox. Damages sought: $3,135,000.

Naming the identical defendants, Robert V. Fisher and the Fisher Studios, Inc., filed a similar action in New York Federal Court. Damages asked: $1,050,000.

By and large, however, the 16 mm. industry took a dim view of the litigation pattern. The National Audio Visual Association's board of directors, meeting in late October, deplored the Government's suit, and pledged whatever support it can give "to offset the litigation's harmful effects." The board made it plain it was its opinion that "existing distribution channels are doing an excellent job of bringing the motion picture, irrespective of film width, to the group audience for which this medium is designed." And it noted, further, that "competition in production and distribution technique and practices has been keen at all levels." With a membership of 535 companies in the 16 mm. non-theatrical field, the trade association's position was significant, and of major importance.

● OF SOME INDUSTRY CONCERN was another Government antitrust action filed in New York against the International Boxing Club. The charge: the IBC had effected a monopoly of television, motion picture and radio rights to championship fights. The exclusive theater telecasts of such fights were contracted for with the IBC by TNT.

● THE YEAR BROUGHT FURTHER MOVES in old cases, including that of the United States vs. Paramount, et al. On Jan. 28, the Department of Justice disclosed that it had reached agreement with Loew's on a consent decree requiring divorcement of Loew's Theaters from the production-distribution parent company and the divestiture of 24 houses, of which two-thirds are in New York City. Purchasers acquiring more than one of the latter must have the Attorney General's approval, it is provided. The decree further grants two years for divorcement, calls for conditional divestiture of 40 other houses and makes provision for a possible refinancing problem. The Statutory Court approved the consent judgment on Feb. 6.

Loew's stockholders approved the reorganization plan at a meeting on April 29. It provides for the new theater company to take over Loew's U. S. and Canadian theater assets and related properties and sites, and a share of the cash and Government securities, at the same time assuming a portion of Loew's liabilities. (The reorganization plan is found in detail in THE FILM DAILY of March 25.)

Loew's on Sept. 21 filed a Federal Court action in New York against United Artists Theaters for the purpose of liquidating and terminating their joint interests in eight theaters.

● ON DEC. 9, Harry M., Jack L. and Maj. Albert Warner, required by the terms of the Warner Bros. Consent decree of Jan. 5, 1951 to dispose of their interest in either the new theater company, to be formed on divorcement, or the production-distribution company, disclosed their decision: They would sell the former to Simon H. Fabian and Samuel Rosen, kinfolk-partners in Fabian Theaters. The Warner circuit comprises approximately 300 houses, estimated to be worth upwards of $35,000,000. Financing of the deal, set for early 1953 finalization, will be through the First National of Boston, a further plume in the well-befeathered chapeau of Serge Semenenko.

Subsequently, it was disclosed that David G. Blair, partner in the New York brokerage firm, Baird & Co., and a one-time vice-president of the insurance firm of Marsh & McLennan, would also be a source of the $7,498,994 financing required to purchase the 674,370 shares in the new theater company, Stanley Warner Corp., from the three brothers.

On Feb. 4, the U. S. Supreme Court set aside a Statutory Court order requiring the sale by Howard Hughes of his stock interest in RKO Theaters within two years. Hughes stock, in trusteeship, was released subsequent to the sale of his RKO Radio holdings to the Ralph Stolkin syndicate, appeared headed back when he re-assumed management control in December.

On March 10, the Statutory Court granted United Paramount Theaters 19 months to complete divestiture, specified that the circuit must sell one-third of the remaining 184 houses every half-year period.

On June 25, the Statutory Court denied a motion to dismiss the Department of Justice's move to amend the "Little Three" consent decree to prohibit any common officers or directors in the signatory companies.

● DIVORCEMENT OF NATIONAL THEATERS from 20th Century-Fox finally became an accomplished fact on Sept. 27, and with it operation of the Roxy Theater, New York, passed to National Theaters. Charles P. Skouras' avowed determination: to make the Roxy the peer of Radio City Music Hall.

The Schine consent decree was amended with Government acquiescence in late January to grant the Gloversville, N. Y., circuit an extra year to dispose of its theaters "for motion picture purposes."

The Crescent Amusement Co. consent decree also brought 1952 repercussions. Following Federal District Court dismissal of contempt charges against Crescent, et al, in Nashville, the Department of Justice appealed. But in mid-December, the Department's motion to dismiss the appeal was granted by the U. S. Supreme Court.

● FEDERAL JUDGE JOHN BARNES in Chicago on April 21 dismissed a 1951 criminal indictment charging Chicago drive-ins with conspiracy to fix prices. The Court held it was strictly a local situation, with interstate commerce not involved.

Exclusive long-term agreements entered into by theaters for the exhibition of advertising reels came under court scrutiny during the year, finally reaching the U. S. Supreme Court which heard argument Dec. 8. The Federal Trade Commission had appealed a Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals decision setting aside a "cease and desist" order against the Motion Picture Advertising Service Co. of New Orleans.

In early December, Decca Records, controlling factor in Universal, entered into a consent decree which terminated a Government antitrust suit instituted in 1948. Other defendants: Decca Records Co. and Musical Industries, Ltd., of England.

VI—INTERNATIONAL

RENEGOTIATION of the Anglo-American film agreement, negotiation of new one-year film agreements with France, Spain and Belgium, German extension of unrestricted American film imports and rentals for a year, the release of millions in blocked American film earnings abroad with Japan the source of the largest bonanza, and October observance in New York of "Salute to Italian Films Week"—these were among the principal plus entries of 1952 in the international film field.

There were other entries far less happy as well. American distributors ran into fresh difficulties in countries in both hemispheres, and some of the business headaches encountered were serious ones. The problems arising ranged from new taxes and ad valorem duties to restrictions on imports and the introduction of new regulations designed to hamstring American operations.

In the New World, the real trouble spots were Brazil, Argentina and Mexico. Eric A. Johnston, MPAA president, returning Nov. 14 from Paris parleys which finally resulted in the new French agreement, flew to Rio de Janiero the following day and later visited Buenos Aires. High level conferences in both Latin American capitals were counted upon to bring American distributors in Brazil and Argentina a generous measure of relief . . . provided assurances of sympathetic consideration and promises of assistance were kept. However, from past experience, the industry knew that this is not always the case, and no place more so than in Latin America.

● THE INDUSTRY'S BRAZILIAN DIFFICULTIES had their inception early in January when the Government made effective that section of a decree requiring American distributors of newsreels to export from Brazil domestic newsreels, documentaries and short subjects equivalent to 10 per cent of newsreels imported. American newsreels promptly were withdrawn from the Brazilian market. A week later, the Brazilian Government struck a second time, implementing another decree provision requiring exhibition of one domestic feature for each eight foreign features shown.

But the real blow did not come until early August. Then the Vargas Government removed motion pictures from the "essential" category, and thus dug into American remittances from Brazil. Still another Brazilian move came in October with the introduction of legislation to create a National Institute of the Cinema. It was not until past mid-November that American distributors received their first Brazilian remittances of the year. The total was $400,000 and covered only the normal January remittables.

● In Argentina, the Peron Government paid little heed to the provisions of the Johnston-Cereijo agreement of 1950 (which was not accepted by Argentina until June, 1951). As a result, at the year end, American companies had roughly 100,000,000 pesos, earned since 1949, still frozen there, and while product was entering the country, censor action, vital to release, was slow-paced. Argentina had made a further anti-American industry move in March—a decree prohibited importation of newsreels from countries in which Argentine newsreels are not exhibited.

In Mexico, where a statute providing for a 50 per cent screen quota, among other things, was ruled unconstitutional in January, to the relief of American distributors and Mexican exhibitors, a new film law was enacted in December. Its drastic "reform" provisions, including one for a 50 per cent quota, boded ill for the American industry. At the year end, Mexican exhibitors had already instituted the first challenging court action.

In October, the Mexican Government increased the duty imposed on positive prints, and thus added to American distributor overhead.

● The reopening of the British agreement was requested by His Majesty's Government in keeping with the provisions for such procedure at the end of the first year, if desired. The discussions were held in Washington rather than in London, the customary backdrop, and agreement on Sept. 10 came far quicker than was anticipated. Five days later, the MPEA and SIMPP approved the modifications by which the American companies waived part of their dollar transfer rights under Britain's Eady Plan in respect both of the current year ended Sept. 30 and the year ended Sept. 30, 1953.

In total, the amount by which the dollar transfers of American companies will be abated will be $5,900,000. In other respects, the arrangements remain unchanged, including the retention of the basic figure of $17,000,000 of unconditional annual transfer by U. S. companies. Under the agreed upon modifications, the Americans waive a disputed item of $1,500,000 for the pact year now waning, and waive the right to convert and remit $4,400,000 of Eady money for the year starting Oct. 1, Eady remittances this year ranged somewheres between $4,000,000 and $6,000,000.

On Sept. 16, the British pact formalities were concluded in New York by the exchange of letters of ratification. Eric A. Johnston acted for the MPEA, Alfred Crown for the SIMPP, while Her Majesty's Government was represented by Sydney Golt, head of the Board of Trade's Film Division.

● The new French agreement came only after a serious rift threatened. With the Byrnes-Blum accord expiring June 30, Eric A. Johnston and John G. McCarthy, representing the MPEA, and Alfred W. Crown, acting for SIMPP, opened discussions in Paris on May 12 looking to a new pact. Their hope: Freer imports, remittances. Subsequently, they returned home with four alternate proposals advanced by the French. Industry fire centered on one establishing a subsidy. Meanwhile, at home, the French Government was having its own trouble with critics.

On June 8, it was announced that the French Government had withdrawn its four proposals, would make new ones. As June faded, there were further Paris discussions, fruitless. Then on July 18, the French Cabinet by unilaterial action sharply reduced film imports for the fiscal year beginning July 1 by 48 to 138, and it quickly developed that this would reduce American imports from 120 to 90.

Subsequent agreement discussions collapsed, with the result that the MPEA board of directors on Sept. 4 referred the matter to Johnston with full powers to act. The French held out an olive branch in late September offering to release $1,250,000 in American film earnings without strings. After State Department consultation, the MPEA and SIMPP accepted. Finally, after a second visit to Paris by Johnston, accompanied by Joyce O'Hara, in November agreement was reached on a one-year deal. By a borrowing device, it assured 110 permits to MPEA member companies, 11 additional to American indies. Provision was also made for remittances. But American industry satisfaction was soon tempered as the French in early December revealed a hidden ace—the extension of the eight per cent turnover tax to the New York share of American earnings. If successful, this could cost American companies an estimated $8 to $10 millions.

● The new one-year Spanish agreement, effective March 1, was signed in Madrid on Jan.

The Company That's On The Move!

Exhibitors in every type of situation from metropolitan first-runs to the smallest towns now know that a new, vitally needed source of box-office product is open to them.

The plans announced last year for a new Allied Artists production policy have become a reality. Pictures like "Flat Top," "Battle Zone," "Hiawatha," "Torpedo Alley," "Kansas Pacific" and "Fort Vengeance" have proven themselves on the screen and at the box-office from coast to coast.

We can promise you sincerely that those films are but forerunners to a 1953 program that will be your key to greater profits. Some of these are already playing your theatres.

Now watch for "The Maze" in 3D; "The Annapolis Story," "The Black Knight," and "Wichita" in color by Technicolor, and many other outstanding properties.

22, with the then U. S. Ambassador, Stanton Griffis, acting for the MPAA and SIMPP. It provided, importantly, for 100 import permits at fixed prices, covering all charges.

The new one-year Belgian agreement, back-dated to Jan. 1, was approved in mid-April but letters of ratification were not exchanged until Johnston visited Brussels on May 7. The nine U. S. distributors with Belgian subsidiaries agreed to voluntarily restrict imports to 251 features, to hold remittances to 50 per cent of billings. Belgium had been a free-market—Europe's only one. The voluntary action forestalled a screen quota. At the year end, foreign managers favored a 50-day extension and immediate negotiation of a new and more favorable agreement.

● THE GERMAN EXTENSION of unrestricted film imports and rentals was one of the fruits of a Spring-time European mission of diplomatic, friendly John G. McCarthy, MPAA vice-president in charge of international affairs. His trouble-shooting itinerary included Spain, Italy, Austria, Holland, Norway, Belgium and France as well as Germany. There were further gains in Germany: Ceilings on film rentals and admission prices were eliminated.

"Salute to Italian Films Week," conceived by Italian Films Export, proved a festive occasion, further cemented Italo-American industry relations and paved the way for the establishment in November of the IFE Releasing Corp. to operate on a national basis. Its principal officers Dr. Renato Gualino, president; E. R. Zorgniotti, Bernard Jacon, and Jonas Rosenfield, Jr., vice-presidents. A distinguished Italian industry mission, headed by Comm. Nicola de Pirro, Director-General of the Italian Government Entertainment Industry Bureau, participated in the crowded Festival Week program in New York, which featured screening of a different Italian feature nightly at the Little Carnegie.

Dr. Gualino spoke of a $20,000,000 yearly American distributor gross as the IFE goal at the dinner which brought the festive week to a close, but Comm. De Pirro, perhaps more realistic, upon his return to Rome placed emphasis upon co-production. In due course THE FILM DAILY on Oct. 31 reported exclusively from Rome that Paramount has entered into a 10-feature co-production deal with the Ponti-De Laurentis Studios and later, on Dec. 2, that United Artists had negotiated a similar arrangement with Angelo Rizzoli's Dearfilm. The UA deal, however, went further, providing for the merger of Dearfilm and Robert Haggiag's DAI to form a new distribution company. DAI has been UA's releasing outlet in Italy.

● OTHERWISE, INTERNATIONALLY the more important developments came in Japan where American distributors for the first time since World War II were operating on their own. On July 22, THE FILM DAILY reported from Tokyo that American remittance negotiations with the Japanese Government had been successfully concluded, resulting in the release of $6,500,000. Of this total, $5,100,000 was accrued during the MPEA operating period. Left for later conversion and release was between $4 and $5 millions. The negotiations represented a victory for Col. Richard T. McConnell of the MPAA, dispatched to Tokyo to negotiate by President Johnston. American remittal of current earnings for the year was on a 30 per cent basis.

There were, however, other Japanese headaches. One related to import permits. After allocating 63 to major companies for the first six months of the Japanese fiscal year, the Finance Ministry cut to 59 for the last six months. At the year end, just what companies were to make the one-permit each sacrifice was undetermined. Import permits for U. S. independent product stood at 15 for each period.

On June 19, THE FILM DAILY disclosed the Japanese Government had imposed a new 15 to 20 per cent royalty tax on film rentals, retroactive to April 3. American protests brought a softening in July: it provided for a 20 per cent tax on the producer's share of rentals, with equal application to all foreign distributors, but with provision for exhibitor withholding of the levy removed.

In late December, the Japanese outlook brightened for American distributors: A cut of 50 per cent in the admissions tax, effective Jan. 1, was estimated to add about $2,300,000 annually to American revenue.

Spyros P. Skouras, 20th-Fox president, returning in late December from a globe-encircling trip, was high on the industry potentialities in the Far East, proposed American assistance in theater construction there, announced he would submit a plan to the MPAA.

● THESE INTERNATIONAL DEVELOPMENTS also made 1952 headlines:

In late January the Swiss Supreme Court in a unique decision ruled the name "Mickey Mouse" was not a "work of creative art" and therefore lacks copyright protection.

On February 11 it was announced that Warners and Hoyts Theaters of Australia has signed a three-year deal.

On February 13 it was disclosed the Greek Government had imposed a 50 per cent ad valorem tax on American film imports. American protests were swift, and in early April the Greek Government reduced the duty 25 per cent.

On March 19, it was disclosed in Washington that the Mutual Security Agency had guaranteed Yugoslav film payments, setting aside for that purpose a $300,000 conversion fund. The same day it was announced that the Government of Cyprus had slashed the import duty on American and British films following protests by theater owners.

On April 4, THE FILM DAILY exclusively disclosed that the Government of the Union of South Africa had made effective a major film import tax increase.

The lease of Warners Teddington Studios in England by the Hawker Aircraft Co. was exclusively reported in a FILM DAILY London Cable on April 7.

United Artists on May 6 announced a unique deal by which it took over physical distribution in Brazil of U.C.B. Films.

On May 21, it was announced in New York that Republic had entered into an agreement for the release of a series of pictures to be made by Britain's popular Herbert Wilcox and Anna Neagle.

● ON JULY 1, THE FILM DAILY reported exclusively that Warners and Paramount, following the example of M-G-M and 20th-Fox, had established a joint Austrian distribution firm.

On July 24, THE FILM DAILY disclosed exclusively that Sweden and Finland were unblocking $1,250,000 in American film earnings. And on August 6 THE FILM DAILY again exclusively reported that Indonesia had approved the release of $500,000 in blocked earnings.

In early October, the American industry vigorously protested the action of the Pakistan Government in shaply increasing the duty on film imports. While the move was designed primarily to keep Indian pictures out of the Pakistan market, it bore heavily as well upon American interests.

On Dec. 4, THE FILM DAILY exclusively disclosed that the Israeli Government had imposed a new ad valorem tax on the New York share of American earnings.

On Dec. 8 announcement was made in New York that Swedish film interests had purchased Scandia Films, Inc., from Ernest Mattson.

As December ended, American distributors were pressing for an increase in the Norwegian film rental ceiling from 35 to 45 per cent.

VII—CENSORSHIP

THE motion picture industry in 1952 scored notable court victories in the legal war waged for liberation from political censorship.

Twice the issue of motion picture censorship was before the Supreme Court of the United States for consideration, and both times the industry emerged a happy winner.

The nation's highest tribunal spoke out for the first time on May 26 when by unanimous decision it reversed New York State court decisions upholding a state censor ban of the controversial Italian picture, "The Miracle," ruling that a state may not bar a film from exhibition on its own finding that it is "sacrilegious."

However, more important by far from the industry's special viewpoint were these words in the opinion of Mr. Associate Justice Tom C. Clark, former U. S. Attorney General, who spoke officially for the Court:

"As we view the case, we need consider only the appellant's contention that the New York statute is an unconstitutional abridgement of free speech and free press. . . . For the foregoing reasons we conclude that expression by motion pictures is within the free speech and free press guarantees of the First and Fourteenth Amendments."

● THE APPEAL FILED by Joseph Burstyn, Inc., New York distributor of the Italian picture, was based on an October, 1951 ruling by the New York Court of Appeals—the division was 5 to 2—sustaining the unanimous finding by the State Board of Regents that "The Miracle" was sacrilegious.

A New York State License to exhibit "The Miracle," part of the trilogy, "Ways of Love," originally was issued to the Burstyn corporation on Nov. 5, 1950, but was revoked by the Board of Regents on Feb. 17, 1951, on the ground that it associated sacred belief with "drunkenness, seduction, mockery and lewdness." Burstyn instituted court action, lost out in both the Appellate Division and Court of Appeals, but, nothing daunted, carried his fight to the Supreme Court for the final, decisive victory.

The Maryland State Board of Censors slowly saw the light and in September, citing the Supreme Court's decision, "reluctantly" approved "The Miracle." However, in Chicago the police censors, backed by Mayor Martin Kennelly, stood firm with the result that the American Civil Liberties Union on Dec. 23 filed suit there challenging on constitutional grounds the refusal of the censors to issue the necessary license for the exhibition of "The Miracle."

● ON JUNE 2, the High Court for a second successive week threw the forces of censorship for a major loss by setting aside the conviction of William L. Gelling, manager of the Paramount Theater, Marshall, Tex., in the state courts on a charge of violating a municipal ordinance by exhibiting a banned picture, to wit "Pinky," distributed by Twentieth Century-Fox.

The Court merely wrote a brief order, without opinion, but Mr. Associate Justice Felix Frankfurter appended a short memorandum in which he said that the Marshall censorship ordinance "offends the due process clause of the 14th Amendment on the score of indefiniteness."

Gelling was originally convicted in a minor justice's court in Marshall of exhibiting a picture which the municipal censors had determined to be "of such character as to be prejudicial to the best interests of the people of Marshall if publicly shown." Fined $100, he carried the case to the County Court where Judge R. M. Nicholas upheld the conviction and raised the fine to $200. Gelling then appealed to the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals where he again lost. The latter court at first sought to make difficult Gelling's further appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court, but subsequently changed attitude.

● ALONG WITH THE VICTORIES scored in the Supreme Court was another of well nigh equal significance won by the industry in Toledo Municipal Court on Sept. 10. Judge Frank W. Wiley, acquitting Martin G. Smith of violating the state censorship statute by exhibiting an uncensored newsreel, held the 17-year-old Ohio law to violate both the Federal and Ohio constitutions.

The test case, first forecast on Feb. 14 exclusively in THE FILM DAILY, was arranged by the MPAA and the ITO of Ohio. Smith, owner-operator of the Westwood Theater, Toledo, a former National Allied president and, for many years, president of the Ohio state association, stepped into the breach when the original plans for a test case in Columbus fell through. The reel exhibited on July 18 was a special one, bore the title, "American Newsreel," was distributed to the Westwood by 20th Century-Fox.

Judge Wiley in his 15-page opinion upheld the contention of defense counsel that "newsreels are entitled to the same protection from 'prior restraint' as newspapers and other publications have historically been entitled to receive." And the Court further held that prior restraint in the case of the Ohio regulations consists first of the requirement to submit films for censorship prior to their showing and, secondly, of the requirement covering inspection fees .

The judge ruled the Ohio law violated both the constitution of Ohio, and the first and 14th amendments of the United States Constitution, guaranteeing freedom of speech and freedom of press. "To subject a newsreel to our present censorship is of itself a greater evil than the possibility of evil against which the statute was designed to protect," Judge Wiley affirmed.

● SO FAR, SO GOOD, and the industry looked for the State of Ohio to do the obvious—file an appeal. Unfortunately, it elected to do otherwise, with the result that the Toledo court's decision extended no further than the municipality's borders. And at the year end, the next move in Ohio was up to the industry.

So were other moves, such as the introduction of censorship repeal measures in the legislatures of those states where political censorship prevails on the state level. This strategy was initially outlined in THE FILM DAILY on June 12.

● OTHERWISE, these were the most important censorship developments in 1952:

In late March, the New York Board of Regents upheld the censors' refusal to license "Latuko" for exhibition.

In late May, the Maryland censors banned "The Birth of a Nation."

In mid-June, the Appellate Division, New York State Supreme Court, ruled (three to two) in the "La Ronde" case that the U. S. Supreme Court decision in "The Miracle" case did not invalidate the statute empowering the Board of Regents to censor films on grounds other than sacrilege. The French film, distributed by Commercial Pictures, has been banned from exhibition in New York by the censors. A further appeal to the Circuit Court of Appeals was pending at the year end.

As June ended, Charles A. Brind, Jr., counsel to the New York State Education Department and the University of New York, in a Washington address suggested licensing of film theaters as a means of banning exhibition of pictures deemed objectionable. "Thought control" quickly countered the MPAA.

In July, Classic Pictures, Inc., sued in Ohio Supreme Court to require the state censors to re-review "Native Son," previously banned. The decision in mid-October was adverse.

In late September, too, the Pennsylvania censors, having pondered "The Miracle" decision, elected to reverse a former banning of Hallmark's "Mom and Dad."

The New York Board of Regents in late September upheld the censors' refusal to license "Slaves of the Underworld," released by the A. J. Film Distributing Co.

Also in late September, Superior Films, distributor of "M," filed an appeal in Ohio Supreme Court; the picture had been rejected for a licensing a second time on Sept. 16.

In late October, the Maryland State Board of Censors suffered a further defeat when Judge

S. Ralph Warnken overruled the board on its attempts to require certain deletions in "Damaged Lives." The court held that censorship cannot be made to depend upon location of exhibition or prices of admissions, points raised by the board.

● MEANWHILE, in the last quarter of the year there were these encouraging developments. The first International Conference of Artists, sponsored by UNESCO, brought its sessions in Venice to a close Sept. 28 by condemning all forms of censorship. And on Nov. 25, the American Civil Liberties Union's National Council on Freedom from Censorship by letter to 211 leading distributors and exhibitors offered its services to combat pressure group drives aimed at motion picture censorship.

VIII—TRADE LITIGATION

THE number of antitrust actions instituted in 1952 soared to 86, an all-time high for a calendar year, and the damages demanded in 76 aggregated $116,505,366 also a record. In the 10 other cases, either monetary damages were not sought, or were left to be determined by the court.

In 1951, the number of suits brought in the Continental United States totaled 55, and the specific damages demanded aggregated $91,829,101.

The peak damage demand, $23,000,000, was contained in an antitrust suit filed in Federal Court, Boston, on Jan. 21 in which Jean Campopiano, owner of the Capitol, Lawrence, Mass., named all majors except 20th Century-Fox as plaintiffs. An out of court settlement was reached, however, and the case was reported dismissed on Sept. 11.

The action seeking the second largest monetary award was filed in New York Federal Court on Oct. 30 by three Max A. Cohen corporations controlling the New Amsterdam Theater. It called for $11,890,000. Defendants named were five majors, their subsidiaries and former theater affiliates. In 1949, three Cohen corporations sued for $9,124,000 with the New Amsterdam involved.

While Illinois and Chicago were the most productive, THE FILM DAILY antitrust suit chart showed theaters in no less than 56 cities and towns involved in cases during the year. The list: Allentown, Pa., Appleton, Wis., Albany, Athol, Mass., Austin, Tex.; Benton Harbor, Mich., Baltimore, Brooklyn, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, Camden, N. J., Clinton, O., Colorado City, Tex.; DuPage, Ill.; Downer's Grove, Ill., Denver, East Rockaway, N. Y., Franklin, Mass., Geneva, Ill., Germantown, Pa., Glen Ellyn, Ill., Greenfield, Mass., Graham, N. C., Houston, Havelock, Neb., Iowa City, Ia., Indianapolis, Kalamazoo, Mich., Kansas City, Kans., Lawrence, Mass., Leonia, N. J., Los Angeles, Muskegon, Mich., Milwaukee, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., New York City, Ogontz, Pa., Pearl River, N. Y., Palm Beach, Fla., Quincy, Mass., Rosborough, Pa., Roswell, N. M., Saginaw, Mich., Shreveport, La., Sycamore, Ill., South Bend, Ind.; St. Petersburg, Fla.; Ulrichsville, O., Villa Park, Ill., Wilmington, Ill., Wheaton, Ill., Wichita, Kans., Washington, Yonkers and York, Mass.

One unique antitrust suit originated in Chicago where George E. Phillips, owner of the Harding and Howard Theaters, under lease to Balaban & Katz, late in January sought damages aggregating $750,000 from Metro, Paramount, RKO, 20th Century-Fox and Warners and the theater circuit. The charge: percentage rentals were reduced because of B & K's inability to secure product.

The 16 mm. field was productive of a first antitrust action in late May when the Greenwood Film Service of Miami filed a suit for $120,000 damages in Federal Court, Atlanta, alleging that Universal's subsidiary, United World Films, refused to supply it with narrow gauge product.

● THE YEAR'S RECAP shows that in addition to the Campopiano suit, 11 other antitrust suits were settled out of court, three other cases were dismissed by court action, and seven were tried. In the latter, plaintiffs were victorious in four, their verdicts calling for payment of a total in damages of $482,576.

The damages asked in the suits settled, apart from the Campopiano case, totalled $13,275,000; terms of settlement were not discussed.

In those cases where the court dismissed, the damages asked totalled $9,400,000.

● ASIDE FROM ANTITRUST LITIGATION, these legal developments in 1952 held particular interest: Geramy Holding Corp., a minority stockholder, sued on Jan. 3 in Federal Court, New York, attacking the company's settlement with Louis B. Mayer and seeking the return of all monies paid both Mayer and J. Robert Rubin since Sept. 1, 1949.

The Bank of America on Jan. 23 filed a $2,642,240 suit in Federal Court, New York, against Loew's International, charging the distribution company fell short of using its best efforts in the marketing of nine films overseas.

As March came in, a decision by Federal Judge Leon R. Yankwich in Los Angeles upheld the principle of incorporating separate motion picture production companies to employ tax advantages under the revenue law's capital gains provisions.

1952: A REVIEW

As March neared the mid-way mark, Republic appealed the trial court's decision favoring Roy Rogers in the latter's suit to block the sale of his old Republic Westerns for TV exhibition.

And as March faded, District Judge Eben L. Taylor in Tulsa, Okla., found for the defendants, Griffith Theaters, et al, in the three-year-old $4,700,000 damage suit filed by minority stockholders in Tulsa Downtown Theaters, Inc.

In April, it was disclosed that a minority stockholder in Universal Pictures had sued in N. Y. Supreme Court to block a merger with Decca Records. Subsequently, it was announced the merger plans had been dropped.

● THE U. S. CIRCUIT COURT OF APPEALS in San Francisco in late April upheld a decision by Judge Ben Harrison of Los Angeles to the effect that exhibitors cannot demand first runs. The plaintiff in the action was Steve Chorak, Puente, Calif., theater owner, who sought to recover $436,187.43 damages, plus counsel fees. Found the court: "As a very practical matter, the motion picture industry could not operate under a system of simultaneous releases. This obvious fact underlines the doctrine that clearances and runs are not illegal per se."

In September, Universal filed a unique suit in Federal Court in Lexington, Ky., to block the distribution of a duped version of its "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Later in the month, on the 21st, Loew's filed another extraordinary action in Los Angeles; it sought to recover $5,195,888 damages from Mario Lanza for breach of contract in failing to report for his role in "The Student Prince."

In late November, a state District Court trial jury in Salt Lake City struck a legal blow at the Utah deceased personalities law, finding for Warners, et al, in a suit filed by the heirs of Jack Donahue. It followed exhibition in Utah of "Look for the Silver Lining."

Subsequently, in mid-December, a State District Court decision, delivered orally from the bench, gave Warners a declaratory judgment holding Utah's right of privacy statute does not prohibit the portrayal of a deceased public figure in a fiction motion picture.

● THE YEAR BROUGHT FURTHER DEVELOPMENTS in two especially important old antitrust cases. The Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals on Dec. 23 ruled that the Jackson Park Theater, Chicago, and the Towne Theater, Milwaukee, victorious in antitrust suits, were not entitled to preferred playing time and automatic flat rentals, but must bid against competing theaters for product where bidding is involved. Earlier, on Nov. 26 the same court directed three modifications in the Jackson Park decree. It was a notable victory for Chicago circuit houses and distributors. Restrictions on duals in loop area houses were ended; distributors were accorded the right to hold release to subsequents of pictures failing to last two weeks in Loop first runs until after the expiration of the original two-week period, and B & K was granted the right to use duals in its Southside houses without distributors being required to grant the Jackson Park booking privileges for the same dual bill.

Defendants in the Towne Theater case satisfied the $841,574 judgment in early February. Counsel for the Towne was turned down in December by the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals in a move to collect five per cent interest from April, 1950, on the award, announced the issue would be carried to the Supreme Court.

● THE U. S. SUPREME COURT during 1952 had occasion to consider a number of industry cases. On its first decision day, it denied a motion filed by Sutphen Estates for a rehearing on its rejected move to intervene in the Warner Bros. consent decree judgment. And on its second decision day, it rejected moves by both the Towne Theater, Milwaukee, and distributors for a review of damages awarded the theater in its antitrust action by the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals in 1951.

Later in January, it turned down an appeal by Dipson Theaters for a review of adverse lower court decisions in its antitrust action against Loew's and Paramount. At the same time, the high court refused to review the dismissal by the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals in San Francisco of the suit instituted by the Conference of Studio Unions against the IATSE and major studios.

In April, the Supreme Court refused to hear an appeal by the majors of the adverse lower court decisions in the original suit brought by David Milgram, operator of the Boulevard Drive-in, Allentown, Pa. The following month, the Court acted similarly in an appeal move instituted by the majors in the antitrust suit brought by the Brookside Theater, Kansas City. The refusal thus upheld the Brookside's award of $1,125,000, plus counsel fees and court costs.

In late December, the High Court directed dismissal of a suit brought by the Wycoff Co., Inc., of Salt Lake City, film carriers, which sought to remove the company from regulation by the Utah Public Service Commission.

● THERE WERE SEQUELS to earlier litigation during the year. In early January, David Milgram, operator of the Boulevard Drive-in, Allentown, Pa., having one court victory, filed a second action against major distributors, this time asking $90,000 damages.

The Towne Theater, Milwaukee, likewise victorious in one suit, on Feb. 13 docketed another against major distributors, this time demanding an additional $1,563,000 damages.

The Broadway Theater, Denver, also filed an encore suit. A jury in late February awarded the theater $100,000 damages. The second action, filed in late May, asked $3,750,000 more.

Twentieth Century-Fox, sued in February by the Sun Theater, Wheaton, Ill., for $480,000, turned plaintiff on March 12, filing two suits in Federal Court, Chicago, against the Wheaton Theater, Wheaton, and the Glenn, Glen Ellyn. The distributor charged the two with dividing film licenses and combining purchase pressure to dictate both terms and playing time.

● OF THE OTHER DEVELOPMENTS on the trade litigation front these were more important:

Intercounty Theaters, Queens, filed a unique antitrust suit in August against Golder Park, Inc., Triland Realty Corp. and State Engineering Corp., charging them with attempting to modify a theater's lease with stipulations that are contrary to the antitrust laws.

Federal Judge Emerick B. Freed in Cleveland on Sept. 8 found for the defendants in a $525,000 antitrust action brought by G & P Amusement Co. It was the first such litigation involving a booking combine, Co-operative Theaters of Ohio. Other defendants included four majors and the Regent Theater, Cleveland.

The Square Theater, Bronx, on Dec. 8 filed an antitrust action under the Donnelly Act in New York State Supreme Court against certain distributors, circuits and individuals. The suit sought to enjoin the defendants from allegedly giving preference to competing houses, asked the court to fix damages.

● ON THE PRODUCTION SCENE, perhaps the most important court decision of 1952 was that handed down in Los Angeles Nov. 26 by Superior Court Judge Orlando H. Rhodes on the screen credits case involving Paul Jarrico and RKO Radio Pictures. Judge Rhodes in his decision recognized the personal service contract as being paramount, thus challenging and even nullifying a provision of the industry-wide SWG agreement recognizing the authority of the Guild to determine credits.

At stake in the case was Jarrico's right to screen credit on "The Las Vegas Story" and $100,000 damages sought. RKO had refused the credit on the ground that the screen writer had forfeited his right by refusing to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee, thus becoming an "object of public disgrace." Jarrico in refusing to testify on April 13, 1951 cited the Fifth Amendment. The court accepted the RKO contention. Counsel for Jarrico announced appeal plans.

IX—COMPO

WHILE the Council of Motion Picture Organizations continued its important "Movieland, U.S.A." tours and other activities designed to build box office business and improve industry public and press relations, its major emphasis in 1952 was upon a campaign designed to bring Congressional repeal in 1953 of the discriminatory 20 per cent Federal admissions tax.

The first tax fight step was taken on Feb. 20 at the annual COMPO membership meeting in New York when a committee to study the situation and determine strategy was authorized. The following day, Ned E. Depinet, retiring president, named as the committee's national co-chairmen two Texans, Robert J. O'Donnell and Col. H. A. Cole. Regional chairmen were named to serve them, and to complete the general tax committee these additional appointments were made: Henderson M. Richey, secretary; Oscar A. Doob, co-ordinator; Abram F. Myers and Herman M. Levy, counsel, and A. Julian Brylawski, Washington representative.

On June 11, it was announced that pressure of private business had made it necessary for O'Donnell to step down, and that Pat McGee, general manager of Cooper Foundation Theaters, Denver, was replacing him.

Finally, on July 8, the tax committee assembled in New York and determined that the repeal campaign would be conducted strictly at the grass roots level with (1) no request to the public for support and (2) with no directive from the committee as to the disposition of tax savings in the event that the 20 per cent impost is eliminated.

● THE MEETING BROUGHT several other important decisions, among them that the fight for repeal be carried forward by state and Congressional district committees and that the campaign be financed out of COMPO's general funds. A subsequent drive inaugurated in August to enroll individual theaters in COMPO's supporting ranks was highly successful, and at the year end approximately 14,000 were members.

The industry, marshalling facts to be employed in the tax offensive, had these salient points, among others: The total admissions tax collected in 1951 was equal to five times the aggregate net profit of all U. S. theaters for the year, and, combined with other levies paid by theaters, was more than seven times their combined net. Nor was this all: The 1951 tax figure was also greater than the combined annual payrolls of all theaters.

There is, of course, a calculated risk inherent in the tax campaign: states and municipalities, and counties, too, might move into the ticket tax field if it were vacated by the Federal Government. However, the industry noted with satisfaction certain victories on the state and city level in 1952. The gross tax in Mississippi was sharply reduced, and Gov. Hugh White made it the occasion to hail the motion picture "as the greatest instrument of information and persuasion." The Florida Supreme Court knocked out a city amusement tax imposed by Pensacola. United Paramount Theaters was the litigant. Redmond, Wash., lifted its five per cent admissions tax from permanent situations. And a measure repealing Philadelphia's 10 per cent levy was pending at the year end.

At the annual meeting in February of the executive committee and board with Ned E. Depinet terminating his brilliant, faithful stewardship, the COMPO presidency was unanimously tendered to Spyros P. Skouras, and the executive vice-presidency was left unfilled to await the return from abroad of the Twentieth Century-Fox chief executive. Other officers named were National Screen Service's Herman Robbins, treasurer, and the MPAA's Sidney Schreiber, secretary.

The meeting's other more important decisions included: Simplification of the theater dues formula and collection mechanics, extension of invitations to TESMA and TEDA to affiliate and adoption of a resolution calling upon the House Un-American Activities Committee "in all fairness" to immediately correct the injustice done by its report on Communism in Hollywood to "the good name" of the industry's thousands of employes.

Upon the declination of the presidency by Skouras because of pressure of his company duties, there was a further canvass of the field of eligibles with the result that the services of William F. Rodgers were sought. The Metro sales consultant and adviser declined for reasons of health. Others, more informally approached, also were found unavailable.

● FINALLY, ON APRIL 27, Arthur L. Mayer in bringing to a close his long and distinguished service as executive vice-president, recommended that in lieu of a president, COMPO be administered by a triumvirate comprising co-chairmen to be named by National Allied, TOA and the MPAA. The Mayer solution was accepted. Allied's board on May 5 designated Trueman T. Rembusch to serve, and on May 20, TOA announced Sam Pinanski as its designee. The MPAA, slow to find a nominee, completed the triumvirate's organization June 8 by naming Al Lichtman, 20th-Fox distribution head.

While no executive vice-president was chosen, the duties of that office generally were absorbed by able Robert W. Coyne, COMPO's special counsel. Charles McCarthy under the triumvirate continued to function as efficient information executive.

That this arrangement had proven advantageous was made clear at a meeting of the COMPO board and executive committee in Chicago Dec. 10-11 when the triumvirate was re-named by the latter for another year.

● THE DELIBERATIONS produced these other highlights:

The Theater Owners of Washington, Idaho and Alaska and the Theater Equipment Dealers Association were admitted to membership, and the latter's executive director Ray G. Colvin was seated on the board.

A report by Robert J. O'Donnell, national director, "Movietime, U. S. A.," noted that since the campaign's inaugural, 330 Hollywood personalities had visited 1,500 cities and towns to make 8,000 p.a.'s.

Plan presented by the MPIC for extension of its PR—informational services to the entire industry was referred to the Finance Committee, with COMPO agreeing to cooperate.

Plan for a National Health Week program, while sanctioned, was referred to COMPO's constituent members for study and approval before reference to committee for execution.

Plan for a Movietime Exposition Train, originating with Texas COMPO, was approved in principle, referred to committee for full investigation.

Because of expense entailed a plan by Eddie Cantor for an industry radio program was rejected. A plan for the production of a new series of short subjects similar to the "Movies and You" group was approved.

Because of date conflicts the second Hollywood Roundtable from Feb. 2-6 was deferred until April or May.

● THE COMPO RECAP also shows:

Coyne on Jan. 20 appeared before the House Appropriations committee to present the Treasury Department's request for an appropriation for Defense Bond activities.

On March 20, COMPO urged the Treasury to reconsider the characterization of the film industry as a relatively non-essential service in its tax study.

Activation of the Speakers Bureau was announced in late March; the initial follow-through came in May when Universal's Maurice A. Bergman spoke in Ohio cities, and Coyne kept engagements in Virginia. But thereafter, the Bureau as such became inactive. Perhaps in 1953. . . .

On April 12, Lichtman, speaking at the MPTO of Georgia convention in Atlanta, boldly proposed that COMPO regulate trade practices.

On June 9, ambitious and energetic Texas COMPO opened a three-day conference in Dallas; attendance approximated 1,000, enthusiastically appraised by Texans as the largest ever attracted by a state industry event.

While COMPO's annual meeting in February scheduled a second Hollywood Roundtable—with distribution participation for the first time—in Hollywood on July 23, it failed to materialize. However, on Aug. 15 Rembusch and Pinanski of the triumvirate, O'Donnell, "Movietime, U.S.A.'s" national director and Ned E. Depinet, past president, met with studio heads in Hollywood, and agreed to meet the latter's suggestion for more frequent meetings with exhibitor representatives. Three or more yearly were favored.

On Dec. 2, it was announced that Ben Shlyen of Boxoffice had been elected by the Trade Press Publishers Committee to succeed Jack Alicoate of THE FILM DAILY on the Executive Committee. Elected as alternate was Jay Emanuel of The Exhibitor, succeeding Charles E. "Chick" Lewis of Showmen's Trade Review.

X—MPAA

THE Motion Picture Association's alliance with the ITO of Ohio, an affiliate of National Allied, to test the constitutionality of newsreel censorship in the Buckeye State and its initiative in convening an industry conference on arbitration, both treated fully elsewhere, easily dominated the domestic side in 1952.

But of equal importance, and significance, too, was the development on the association's international side which, in mid-December, saw President Eric A. Johnston personally assume active, direct and complete control of overseas operations whether under the MPAA or MPEA banner.

This decision, first indicated upon Johnston's return a year ago from service as Economic Stabilizer when he made plain his concern with the film markets abroad, had as a sequel the resignation of John G. McCarthy as vice-president in charge of international affairs, a post filled for more than three years during which he was freely credited by foreign department heads with easing the way markedly for American distributors abroad.

● IN THE MONTHS PRECEDING the change-over, Johnston had been taking a progressively greater direct hand in MPAA international affairs. He made two European trips during the year of industry import and on Nov. 15, following his return from Paris where he negotiated a new one-year film accord, he emplaned for Latin America. Before his return, he had visitied five countries—Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay, Chile and Peru—, conferred with their presidents and/or dictators, and received assurances that brightened the American film outlook, up to then none too promising because of restrictions of varying nature.

Johnston's assumption of personal direction of international affairs brought a new assignment of executive responsibilities. Joyce O'Hara and Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr., vice presidents, were assigned to handle contacts with the State Department and Washington's foreign Embassies, and three "desks" were created to handle three geographical areas. Hetzel was given acting charge of the European-African "desk," assisted by George R. Canty; Robert J. Corkery drew the South American "desk." The Asian "desk" was unfilled at the year end.

Corkery, who joined the association in July, had served as director of UNRRA activities in the U. S. zone in Austria, as director of field services of the International Refugee Organization, headquartering in Geneva, Switzerland, and more recently as European Coordinator of the U. S. Displaced Persons Commission.

His advent as administrative assistant to McCarthy came simultaneously with other staff changes. Theodore Smith was appointed Continental representative, headquartering in Paris, to fill the gap caused weeks earlier by the resignation of Gerald Mayer to take an Embassy appointment.

G. Griffith Johnson, who had been associated with Johnston at ESA, where he was chief economic adviser, and who had joined the MPAA in January to expand its research department and program, also was involved in the realignment. He was directed to devote his time to international affairs that Johnston might be kept abreast speedily of economic developments in the different American overseas markets.

Johnston's interest in foreign trade generally, frequently reflected in his addresses and public papers, twice caused him to be drafted for further public service in 1952. On Jan. 23, President Truman named him chairman of the International Development Advisory Board (Point Four) and on July 15 it was announced that the President had selected him as one of 12 "prominent Americans" to serve on a committee to seek the removal of trade barriers.

● ON THE DOMESTIC FRONT, the association scored effectively in its adroit handling of the explosive Communism-in-Hollywood issue. Johnston was quick to condemn, as did other industry spokesmen, a report issued in February by the House Un-American Activities Committtee which had held a series of hearings.

The House Committee in a year-end report referred to increased co-operation and assistance from "individuals in and associated with the motion picture industry," asserted that had Communist efforts to infiltrate the industry gone unexposed, "it is almost inevitable that the content of motion pictures would have been influenced and slanted and become a medium for Communist propaganda." There were those who felt, and with reason, that the Committee well might have noted that the Reds' failure in Hollywood was due largely to Hollywood itself.

As potentially dangerous, if not more so, to the industry, however, was the attitude of the American Legion which, in its magazine, had become gravely critical. As a result, some pictures were picketed. In April and again in August, there were meetings between Johnston and other industry leaders with the Legion's national commander and other Legion policy makers. Employing information supplied by the Legion, the individual studios engaged in what was termed a "personnel screening operation." Some 200 were involved.

How effective all this proved to be was graphically established in late August when the Legion national convention was held in New York. Five resolutions, so much dynamite from motion picture PR viewpoint, dealing with Communism-in-Hollywood were kept off the convention floor and were referred to the Legion's standing commission. The industry collectively could well breathe a sigh of relief.

However, if the Legion had been inclined to be critical, the second great veterans organization, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, decidedly was not. At the 53rd national encampment, the VFW by resolution commended the industry for its anti-Communism stand.

Parenthetically, a curious organization called the Wage Earners Committee found itself and its officers named defendants in two libel actions as a result of its own "anti-Communist" campaign. Stanley Kramer, plaintiff in one, asked $1,000,000 damages; Dore Schary, plaintiff in the second, sued for $1,250,000.

● TWO HIGHLY IMPORTANT STUDIES were instituted domestically during the year. Both were unfinished as it ended. One looked to the streamlining of distribution, through exchange consolidation, etc., objects, economy, greater efficiency; the second, to the future of the newsreels, numerically and otherwise. At the year end, Universal's Charles J. Feldman succeeded A. W. Schwalberg of Paramount as chairman of the Distributors' Committee, under whose direction the former study was continuing.

● AN ASSOCIATION RUN-DOWN shows these other newsworthy developments:

The industry's record in education, a record of which it is justifiably proud, was lauded at the 15th anniversary dinner of Teaching Films Custodians in New York on April 20.

On April 29, the resignation was announced of B. Bernard Kreisler as executive director of the MPAA advisory unit on foreign films to assume the presidency of International Film Associates-Television Corp. Irving Maas assumed the duties as an added assignment.

At the annual association elections on May 4, Johnston and his cabinet members were renamed, and at the same time, Ralph D. Hetzel, Jr., was elected a vice president.

Johnston created a stir in newspaper advertising circles when, speaking at the second Hartford (Conn.) Times press-motion picture symposium, he told New England publishers, editors and advertising directors that premium advertising rates were "archaic, discriminatory and just plain unfair." Although subsequently Johnston envisioned similar symposiums in other territories later in the year, they failed to materialize.

There was a second stir, this time in Texas exhibitor circles, as a result of some words Johnston had to say at the September TOA convention in Washington. The Johnston premise, deemed sound by many, that TV film production would provide Hollywood the greater income to make better pictures, brought a quick public challenge from important Texas theater operators. Johnston replied privately, and that was that.

● INDUSTRY AND COMPANY HOPES of reclaiming five Hollywood features which fell into Russian hands in East Germany several years earlier were dashed in late September. The Soviet Foreign Office, after more than a year of stalling, finally in a curt note to the State Department advised that the pictures were "war booty" and that industry's request for their return was unfounded. The State Department had interceded at the request of Johnston. The pictures involved: "Mr.

Smith Goes to Washington," "Meet John Doe," "Viva Villa," "The Three Musketeers" and "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." The two first mentioned were re-edited for Red propaganda purposes after their "capture."

XI—SIMPP

A CALL to public service as the Government's Price Stabilizer came to former Gov. Ellis G. Arnall of Georgia, president of the Society of Independent Motion Picture Producers, in late January, and, as a good citizen, he responded, the Society's board granting a leave of absence to that end. The appointment was formally announced by the White House on Feb. 7 when the nomination was dispatched to the Senate. Confirmation came speedily.

In the Governor's absence, which extended until late August when his resignation was announced in Washington, the Society's activities West and East were guided by Gunther R. Lessing and James A. Mulvey, respectively board chairman and executive committee chairman, and chairman of the Eastern committee.

Before his selection by President Harry S. Truman to fill the price stabilizing assignment as successor to Mike Di Salle, Arnall in mid-January struck out vigorously at what he described as "collusive bidding on the part of exhibitors" in violation of consent decree strictures and announced that the Society was prepared to furnish the Department of Justice with available information.

A few days later, the Governor, as his last presidential action, addressed a strongly worded letter on consent decree enforcement to the then U. S. Attorney General, Howard McGrath. A salient paragraph:

"It is our hope that the Department will not consider the motion picture cases closed merely by reason of apparent compliance with the court order, but we urge the Department to assiduously, aggressively and determinedly make sure that the decrees do not cloak illegality with legality and that trick bidding, the split of product and other such illegal devices be exposed and prosecuted."

● On March 18, Marvin L. Faris, the Society's executive secretary, joined with John Dales, Jr., executive secretary of the Screen Actors Guild, to announce agreement had been reached on the terms of a new contract extending to June 1, 1958. Its provisions are identical with those of a similar agreement previously negotiated by the Guild with major producers. Reopening of the contract on wage rates and working conditions in 1954 and again in 1956 is permissible.

To represent the Society in the first French agreement negotiations in Paris, the board chose Alfred W. Crown, then vice president of Samuel Goldwyn Prods.

The Society, as in the past, was represented in the British agreement modification parleys in Washington in September by Arnall and Mulvey. However, Crown acted for the Society when the ratifying letters were formally exchanged here on Sept. 18.

At its annual meeting in Hollywood on Sept. 24, the Society re-elected all officers for another year.

XII—EXHIBITION

THE ferment that is American exhibition boiled up explosively in 1951. The yeast of exhibitor dissatisfaction first manifested itself at state and regional association meetings, was in evidence at the TOA convention in Washington in September, but the big blow-off came at the subsequent National Allied convention in November in Chicago.

Reverting then to its evangelical militancy, Allied spurned arbitration proposals as drafted by distributor counsel, and by resolution directed its board chairman and general counsel, Abram F. Myers, to obtain evidence "to support appeals to the courts, the executive departments and the appropriate committees of Congress" in the fight on distributors sales and trade policies and practices held objectionable. The convention action was in line with a "statement of policy" formulated and submitted by the Allied directorate.

In this statement, the Allied board struck out especially at high film rentals, termed at "insupportable heights," and at the pre-releasing of pictures in increasing numbers on terms which made advanced admissions necessary. "In these circumstances," the statement read, "the directors decided that for the time being until the distributors shall reform their destructive policies and practices, all leaders should confine their participation in co-operative undertakings to those projects which promise direct, immediate and substantial benefit to the exhibitors so that they may be free to devote their available time and energy to measures for the protection of Allied members."

● The Allied position on arbitration is covered in the resume of arbitration, constituting

Part III of this review. Otherwise, the Allied convention brought these principal developments:

Announcement that the board had approved a one-year renewal of COMPO membership (the action was not without opposition both within the board and at the convention); establishment of compact Caravan procedure for exchanging information between territories, condemnation by resolution of the Government's 16 mm. suit discussed in Part V of this review, and assailment at convention film clinics of a variety of abuses cited. These ranged from clearances to advanced admission prices, from conpetitive bidding to print shortages, and from "Bottlenecking" of pictures to tie-in sales. It was, in short, just like old times—Allied times, that is, again.

The Allied convention had a special distinction. It marked the first time a national organization of exhibitors met simultaneously with the TESMA and TEDA, the three joining together to sponsor a giant trade show in the Morrison Hotel. In 1953, TOA will join with TESMA and TEDA to sponsor a similar trade show at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in the same city. The dates: Oct. 31-Nov. 5.

● THE ALLIED BOARD held its annual mid-Winter meeting Feb. 5-6 in Washington, heard General Counsel Myers ask the rhetorical question, "Did the film companies (during the past year) take advantage of the preoccupation of the exhibitors and their leaders with COMPO and its projects to jack up film prices, to spread competitive bidding, to control admission prices and to impose other objectionable practices which otherwise could have encountered violent opposition in exhibitor ranks?" The storm warning pennants were thus hoisted, obviously were either overlooked or discounted.

The board concerned itself with arbitration objectives, approving a Myers' plan: called for industry-wide co-operation under COMPO's banner to bring about repeal of the Federal ticket tax "now," elected New Jersey's Wilbur Snaper to succeed Indiana's Trueman T. Rembusch as president, re-elected Board Chairman, General Counsel Myers. Others named:

Wisconsin's Ben Marcus and Colorado's John Wolfberg as treasurer and secretary, respectively; Minnesota's Stanley Kane, recording secretary (re-elected). Iowa's Charles Niles, retiring as vice-president, was named chairman of the Caravan Committee, succeeding Texas' Col. H. A. Cole.

● AS AT THE LATER ALLIED CONVENTION, arbitration held the spotlight at the TOA Washington sessions, but there was a decided difference in the action taken. The TOA convention adopted a resolution "heartily endorsing" the principle, and recommended for approval of its state and regional units the proposed draft with due regard to suggestions and amendments which were offered by the convention to TOA's arbitration committee.

The TOA convention also: Voted to continue COMPO membership; authorized a new conciliation plan on the exchange territory level; established a committee to serve as a clearing house for concession questions; deferred action on the matter of seeking co-defendant status in the Government's 16 mm. suit pending a referendum among affiliates; praised the MPIC by resolution for "its successful battle to rid Hollywood of Communist infiltration"; heard exhibitor leaders denounce high rental terms.

● TOA's EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE, meeting on the convention eve, received the sudden, unexpected resignation of Gael Sullivan, executive director, who had returned to that post after being on leave for months to direct the campaign waged by Sen. Estes Kefauver of Tennessee for the Democratic Presidential nomination. It was occasioned, it was reported, by a heavy TOA budget cut for 1952-53 year.

To succeed President Mitchell Wolfson of Miami, the TOA named Alfred Starr of Nashville. Walter Reade, Jr., of New York, was elected executive vice-president, a new post. Charles P. Skouras of Los Angeles, was the choice for board chairman. Vice-presidents were increased from two to five and chosen on a regional basis: E. D. Martin, Georgia; Patrick McGee, Colorado; John Rowley, Texas; Roy Cooper, California; Myron Blank, Iowa. Si H. Fabian of New York, was elected treasurer; Albert M. Pickus of Stratford, Conn., secretary. Wolfson and M. A. Lightman, Sr., of Memphis, were chosen co-chairmen of the Finance Committee. Herman M. Levy of New Haven, was renamed general counsel. Subsequently, the TOA board picked a new Executive Committee with Reade as chairman.

● THE TOA BOARD at its meeting on the Coast early in the year approved the establishment of an industry Institute of Scientific Research at Palo Alto, Calif. Subsequently, a 14-man research committee headed by Charles P. Skouras was designated to advance the project. Research, however, is dollar-consuming, and the dollars, it became evident, were not to be found.

● IN NEW YORK, OMPI, otherwise the Organization of the Motion Picture Industry of the City of New York, under the energetic chairmanship of Century Theaters' Fred J. Schwartz, energetically pushed a PR-business-building program importantly marked, among other things, by a September co-operative alliance with WNBC and WNBT and innovations in newspaper theater advertising directories.

● IN OHIO, the ITO of Ohio entered State Fair exhibition with its own tent show, "Hollywood at the Fair." It was quickly duplicated by the ATO of Indiana at the Indiana State Fair. And at the year end, Texas COMPO was envisioning a Hollywood Exposition Train to tour the nation as did the Freedom Train.

● ON THE ORGANIZATIONAL FRONT, the Pacific Coast Conference of Independent Theater Owners in late January shortened its name to Western Theater Owners, the Independent Theater Owners of Northern California and Nevada became the Northern California Theaters Association and the Theater Owners of Washington, Idaho and Alaska, identified with the WTO, in December affiliated with COMPO on its own.

● OTHERWISE, THESE WERE the more newsworthy exhibition developments of the year:

Approximately 100 circuit and independent theater owners, controlling in the aggregate more than 10,000 theaters, were flown by Metro to its studios on May 8 on "Operation Seeing Is Believing." The exhibitors returned from the series of preview screenings with enthusiasm running high. It was a merchandising move without industry precedent.

As June ended, nomination of Guthrie F. Crowe, president of the Kentucky Association of Theater Owners, as Federal District Judge for the Canal Zone was announced by President Harry S. Truman. Confirmation was speedy.

In early August, Harry Brandt's ITOA signed the first agreement with ASCAP providing for the use of ASCAP recorded music in theaters.

In early October, OMPI disclosed plans to hold a great Film Exposition in Grand Central Palace in December, 1953. It is a project first envisioned by Chairman Schwartz in 1951, planned for March, 1952.

In late August, TOA General Counsel Levy urged all affiliates to push for a revision of censorship laws if existing within their respective balliwicks.

On Dec. 16, ASCAP announced a revision of its schedule of music rates, the changes benefiting smaller theaters.

In mid-December, the El Capitan Drive-in, Metropolis, Ill., introduced a new wrinkle—an enclosed heated ramp with seats for 500.

In late December, the MPTO of Maryland and the MPTO of Virginia reached hands across state lines to establish a joint committee on industry matters.

XIII—LABOR

SUCCESSFUL negotiation of major guild contracts, several containing added radical provisions made necessary by the changing industry television scene, especially as regards television; Hollywood labor's restivity over the increase in American overseas production essentially for TV release, with its several effects upon studio employment; moves to settle the long- standing TV jurisdictional dispute between film industry guilds and the Television Authority; establishment in the East of a Motion Picture Council as the counterpart of that existing under the AFL banner for years in Hollywood and two strikes, one by the SWG against the Alliance of Television Producers, the other by the Screen Actors Guild against producers of filmed commercials for television—these distinguished the year's labor developments in the industry.

On Jan. 21, it was announced in Miami Beach, Fla., that major studios had signed a new two-year AFM contract granting a 15 per cent wage increase (not to exceed $18.50 per week) and other benefits to some 600-800 regularly employed musicians and many hundred more doing part-time work. The contract, back-dated to Jan. 15, continued the terms of the prior agreement under which musicians reserve rights in the re-use of musical sound tracks for subsequent television sale and distribution. The TV rights were not a subject of negotiation.

● HOWEVER, THE TV RIGHTS played a higher important part in the subsequent SAG negotiations with both the AMPP and the IMPPA. The latter's contract with the actors' guild was disclosed on Feb. 13, and for the first time in the history of the entertainment industry, provided for an additional payment to actors in casts of theatrical pictures later shown on TV. Thus, the Guild achieved recognition of its cardinal principle—and set the pattern for other labor engaged in production.

The agreement covered a list of approximately 70 pictures. It provides each actor in these films shall receive an additional payment of 12½ per cent of his total original theatrical film salary earned in the films in question. The percentage is predicated on the selling price to television of less than $20,000 per film. If a producer should receive $20,000 or more per film, the actors in such films will receive 15 per cent of their original earnings in the film. Thus, the principle of a sliding scale also was established, based on the amount of money a theatrical film producer can obtain for the film's later sale to television.

The agreement runs for seven years and provides that none of the films in question shall be released to television until at least three years after their first showing in theaters. All the pictures involved were made since Aug. 1, 1948, and the Guild has the legal right to cancel its contract with a producer unless the producer reaches an agreement with the Guild for an additional payment to actors for such television use. The effect of such a contract cancellation would be that no Guild member would work for such a producer.

● THE SAG CONTRACT with the AMPP was announced later in the month; it had been in negotiation since the preceding September. It provided for extra compensation for actors taking part in features made after Aug. 1, 1948 if released for TV, and reserves to the Guild the right to strike against any studio which releases films to TV without first reaching an agreement with the Guild for such extra compensation. Producers also agreed to bargain on terms of a separate pact for actors who may be employed to make films for TV.

Salary benefits are retroactive to Jan. 1, with the contract running to June 1, 1958. Either party has the right to reopen wage rates and working clauses on June, 1954, and June 1, 1956.

Highlights of wage minimums call for an increase from $55 to $70 for day players, with the weekly freelance minimum rate hiked from $175 to $250. Increases also are provided for stunt men, multiple-picture players, singers, airplane pilots, and term-contract beginners.

● THE SWG STRIKE against the Alliance of Television Film Producers, an August development, continued until mid-November when an agreement of far-reaching consequence was reached. Among other things, it provided that royalty payments to TV writers shall be based on a percentage of the original purchase price of a story, rather than on a percentage of gross earnings. Producers conceded the other two original demands, involving the reservation of rights by writers and the leasing of stories. Writers of one time shows and anthology series will lease their basic material to TV producers only for a period of seven years.

"On payment of additional compensation, motion picture, radio and sequel rights may be exploited by the producer within a time limit to be fixed; otherwise rights revert to the author at the end of such period the agreement specified." At the end of the seven-year period, the producer may continue to reissue or remake the TV film, even though all the other basic rights become the property of the author. When a producer makes a motion picture from material written for a one-time show or anthology series, writer will share in the producer's receipts. Payment of an additional fee to the author when a TV film is shown in a motion picture theater also is recognized.

● ON DEC. 1, the strike called by the SAG against producers of filmed TV commercials went into effect on a nation-wide basis. The issue: SAG demand for payment for re-use of commercials, rejected by the Film Producers Association of New York and advertising agencies as sounding a death knell for filmed commercials.

Establishment of an AFL Eastern Motion Picture Council was an early December development; originally planned to represent New York City labor only, its scope was soon expanded to cover the entire Greater New York area.

● OTHER EVENTS of more than passing interest in labor during 1952:

In mid-March, the SIMPP and the SAG reached an agreement upon the terms of a new bargaining contract; extending to June 1, 1958, it embodied all changes in the earlier SAG pact with the AMPP.

The Screen Extras Guild and the AMPP signed a new six-year agreement in early April; the wage increases called for were estimated to add between $750,000 and $1,000,000 to production overhead in retroactive pay alone. Contracts with the SIMPP and IMPPA and unaffiliated independent producers followed.

As April faded, it was announced that the Screen Directors Guild had agreed upon modification of the eight-year contract signed in 1950 with major studios. Directors of westerns, first and second assistant directors and second unit directors were principal beneficiaries of increases granted.

On July 3, the first contract ever negotiated governing wages and conditions for actors in TV entertainment films was announced by the SAG and the Alliance of Television Film Producers of Hollywood. It runs for three years from July 21. The Alliance's members produce about 80 per cent of all TV entertainment films in the U. S.

Significantly, the bargaining agreement provided for additional payment to actors for re-televising of television entertainment films and, among other innovations, sets higher salary minimums for actors who make more than one such film in a week.

The agreement also provided: An actor's original salary allows two showings of a television film in each market area. Upon additional payments to an actor of 50 per cent of his applicable minimum salary, the film may be televised for third and fourth times; 25 per cent for the fifth time, and one payment of 25 per cent for sixth and all subsequent re-runs. Other provisions:

Daily minimum, $70 per day for single role in single picture, and $175 for guaranteed three consecutive days; three-weekly minimum, $250 for single role in single picture; $320 for two films per week; $375, three films per week.

● In early February, the SAG defeated the TVA in an NLRB Coast bargaining election at CBS and the SDG withdrew from the MPIC.

In early July, it was disclosed that the IATSE was looking towards a national agreement covering craftsmen working in the production end of television.

In early September, the board of the Four A's, moving to settle a long-standing jurisdictional dispute between film Guilds and Television Authority, voted to give representation of telepix players to the SAG and SEG. Previously, the TVA had enjoyed jurisdiction over the entire TV field.

In mid-December, it was disclosed that with each IATSE exchange local in the future to negotiate its own contract chances favored fluctuation both in wages and hours. Heretofore, with the IATSE acting as negotiator for all locals, uniformity has prevailed.

Foreign Film Markets

TREND IN OVERSEAS ACTIVITIES UPWARD; AGGREGATE RETURN WAS $160,000,000

By J. C. PRIORE
FILM DAILY Staff Writer

MORE SO IN 1952 the trend in film distribution operations overseas was onward and upward. Whether remittances were forthcoming or, in other instances whether they were stored away in the deep freeze compartment, the take was quite impressive and it would appear that foreign business in the handful or so of years since the end of War II was back and black on the books.

If a graph were to be drawn in illustration covering the five or six year period, it would offer a glimpse of steadily mounting highs, culminating in the peak that marks the latest analysis and result. This would be, specifically, a figure like $160,000,000.

In contrast and comparison the figure given for 1946, a previous high, was $142,000,000. Other tallies for other periods show the importance of selling American pictures as an export to the pleasant tune of $124,000,000 for 1947; $130,000,000 for 1948 and $120,000,000 for both 1949 and 1950. These are net earnings figures after allowances for both advertising and exploitation and operational factors.

Breaking down the $160,000,000 figure, it was found that more than half the amount was earned in Great Britain, Italy and France, which are considered the best markets in Continental Europe. Also included were other countries in the North Atlantic Pact.

The remaining portion of the over-all total was divided as follows: Latin America, $26,000,000; Canada, $15,000,000, and $31,000,000 from distribution throughout the rest of the world, excluding war areas in the Orient and localities under Communist domination. Remittances from the Italian market for the 1951-52 period, which were released at year's end, indicated there would be $8,000,000 forthcoming for the divvy, with another $5,000,000 to be made available to the Cinema Account for "permitted uses," and 12½ per cent allotted for the promotion of Italian product here.

This being a business entailing extensive executive traveling for first hand observation, it stands that such observations reached by key figures have profound, basic qualification. Condensing and amplifying the daily global reports, it was to be noted that regardless of the necessary restraint that must prevail in the fuller exploration of certain countries, in other cases, where the field is presently open, more fuller development is in order and this, of course, indicates further expansion to capitalize on present opportunity.

Particular emphasis was placed on the Far East, including Indonesia and pinpointing the potentialities of Japan where, it was an observation, the field could be extended to "fabulous" lengths. India was also singled out as an ideal country for increasing threefold present revenues, not only for American pictures but also for the output of British studios. In five years, it was pointed out, this could be a reality.

One line of thought for the improvement of distribution in certain quarters of the world suggested the construction of theaters in areas where population statistics indicated need for not only entertainment but also for education and information. While the United Nations have been carrying on a plan with similar bent but without establishing centers of impressive performance, it was offered that Government interest might be sought as a cooperative factor. Again India was given as an illustration of the absence of exploitation endeavor. Specifically, it was stated that this country of vast population—three times that of the U. S.—was served by a mere 3,000 theaters.

Constantly subjected to lively, opportunistic scrutiny throughout the world by alert and resourceful eyes in numerous Ministries of Finance and frequently an easy target, the distribution of American film entertainment will have to face up. Here is a preview of what's in the fire:

Mexico threatens a 50 per cent quota and has indicated a hike on positive prints . . . Similarly do Belgian producers seek a quota . . . Italy aims for a $20,000,000 take in the U. S. market which would wipe out the "film dollar gap" . . . U. S. retaliatory measure to Mexico would impose a duty . . . A Brazilian measure would increase U. S. company operations expenditures by $1,000,000 . . . Japan also contemplates a quota at the end of the fiscal year, April, 1953 . . . Argentina has 100,000,000 pesos in the deep freeze. Eric A. Johnston will be visiting.

3-D Finding Its Place

PERIPHERAL VISION OR STEREO, FILMS SEEM DUE FOR CHANGES

By WINFIELD ANDRUS
Managing Editor, The Film Daily

TWO SLUMBERING POTENTIAL GIANTS stirred in the last months of 1952 and as 1953 got underway, the motion picture industry was faced with its greatest upheaval since sound films revolutionized the industry nearly 26 years ago.

Heroes and/or villains of the development are two designations, well-established in scientific circles, but new to most in the film business: peripheral vision and stereoscopic photography. And stereophonic sound hovers in the background ready to support either or both.

While those in the industry quickly tied the two together and dubbed them 3-D, purists argue, and with good reason, that only stereo is true three-dimension and that the wide screen used in peripheral vision methods can offer only an illusion of third dimension.

To which, wide-screen proponents say, "Certainly, but the greater scope and feeling of participation offered by the curved, wide screen more than compensates for not having true 3-D. And you don't need viewers to see the results."

It is further argued that stereo could be added to the wide angle processes, if and when events justify such a move.

Cinerama Is Unveiled

Forerunner of today's wide-screen methods, and the only one used theatrically at this writing, was Cinerama, developed by Fred Waller over a number of years, and finally shown at the Broadway Theater, New York, on Sept. 30, 1952, with "This Is Cinerama," a compilation of short subjects, the initial vehicle.

Cumbersome, but highly effective, Cinerama productions are photographed on three strips of film by a three-lensed camera with picture frames half again as high as standard 35 mm. film. In the theater, the picture is projected by three synchronized projectors which, in the instance of the Broadway, filled a slatted, concave screen measuring 51 by 25 feet.

Three projection booths required are located in the rear of the orchestra level, while a picture control engineer sits at a console in the orchestra pit to see that synchronization is achieved.

An important factor in Cinerama's participation achievement is the stereophonic sound carried on a separate magnetic film strip with seven sound tracks, fed to six directional speakers located across the front of the theater, the sides and the rear. Another engineer is required to keep Cinerama's sound under control.

The phrase "peripheral vision" became better known with the introduction of Cinerama. As explained by Waller, peripheral vision comes into use with the wider scope of the enlarged screen. In effect, it permits the eyes to encompas vistas not possible in standard films, thus permitting the brain to add an illusion of greater depth as it does in everyday vision.

"This Is Cinerama" was an immediate box office success at the Broadway, with reserved seats sold out for weeks in advance. Cinerama later opened in Detroit and is expected to premiere in some 20 cities by the end of the year. Eventual goal of the Cinerama sponsors is a circuit of about 200 theaters.

An Age-Old Principle

Utilizing a principle older than motion pictures, advocates of stereoscopic films have been attempting to make impress on the industry for many years. Requirements are comparatively simple, with the procedure calling for photography of subjects on two strips of film via camera lenses located sufficiently far apart to produce the results desired.

In the theater, the two film strips are projected through Polaroid filters and superimposed on a metallic screen surface. In order to view the result, the audience must wear Polaroid viewers which permit the eyes to sort out the projected images, while the mind picks up clues which result in a true 3-D picture.

Early attempts to advance 3-D in motion picture were doomed to failure because filter techniques were not sufficiently advanced. Viewers could not watch early 3-D for long periods because headache and other disturbances would result.

Metro's 1924 shorts series, for instance, were projected and viewed through colored filters, good only for short subjects.

Developments in the polarization of light have made 3-D features possible for several years, but the industry at large was not disposed to further the development. However, Milton E. Gunzburg, president of Natural Vision Corp. of Los Angeles, had been working on an improved 3-D method for many years and had recently been offering it to producers.

No major company was willing to go along with Gunzburg's process, but Arch Oboler, with a background of experimental radio and motion picture production, decided to make a 3-D feature and came up with "Bwana Devil."

Opening in Los Angeles in late November, "Bwana Devil" was scored by the critics, but the public, sensing a new theater thrill, ignored the critical warnings and rushed to the theater.

3-D Blossoms

Dated in other theaters "Bwana Devil" was an immediate success whereever played, achieving in engagement after engagement such box office results as a normal week's return in a day or two. Oboler eventually sold his interest in "Bwana" to United Artists, and the picture goes its merry box office way.

"Bwana's" box office potential quickly stirred the interest of other, and more established producers. Warners, always the pioneer, secured a Natural Vision license and put "House of Wax' 'into production, Columbia made "Fort Ti" in the same process, and both companies plan further 3-D pictures in NV.

Paramount recalled a camera invented by its Farciot Edouart some years ago for process projection. Easily adapted to 3-D, the camera was utilized for the company's first stereo production, "Sangaree," produced by the "Dollar Bills"—Pine and Thomas.

Metro, too, put a 3-D picture into production using its own stereo process, while 20th-Fox quickly scheduled a pair of 3-D's one in color and one in black-and-white.

Meanwhile, Sol Lesser some months previously had secured an option on a series of 3-D short subjects produced by Stereo Techniques, Ltd., of London for the Festival of Britain. Quickly exercising the option, Lesser booked the S-T program around the country. Later, Lesser formed another company to develop its own 3-D process and to produce.

RKO Radio joined the movement in closing for rights to the stereo camera developed by John A. Norling, another pioneer in stereocopy.

Enter CinemaScope

Late in December, Spyros P. Skouras, 20th-Fox president, returned from Europe and shortly thereafter went on to Hollywood, from where he and Darryl F. Zanuck, 20th-Fox vice-president in charge of production dramatically announced on Feb. 2 that starting with the production of "The Robe," company's most expensive production thus far, all of 20th-Fox's "big" productions would be in a new wide-screen process to be called CinemaScope.

CinemaScope, it was announced, had been developed by 20th-Fox engineers from the French Anamorphoscope process, which Skouras had purchased from Prof. Henri Chretien while in France.

A second peripheral vision method, CinemaScope features a screen two and a half times larger than normal screens and, while curved, the maximum bend is five feet, thus eliminating reflection problems which had dictated a slatted screen for Cinerama.

Only one camera, film strip and projector are required or the system, which employs the anamorphosis principle and, via a special lens compresses a wide vista onto a standard 35 mm. frame, with a matching projection lens permitting the compressed images to be projected to their normal proportions.

Added to this is stereophonic sound on four magnetically-recorded tracks — which 20th-Fox plans to put on the same film as the picture—to be reproduced through three speakers located behind and on both sides of the screen.

Parenthetically, it should be noted that the Anamorphoscope process was not unknown in the country, having been demonstrated in New York before an optical society convention back in the 1930s. Like stereo, Anamorphoscope was developed long before the industry was ready to accept it.

It is also recalled that CinemaScope is not the industry's first excursion into the field of wider screens. The late William Fox, then president of Fox Film Corp., in 1929 attempted to promote the Grandeur process, featuring a 75 mm. film, while Paramount about the same time was working with a 65 mm. film process. These efforts, however, foundered because of the problems of standardization and the complete changeover required in both studios and theaters.

Announcement of CinemaScope brought out that Loew's, too, had been working on a similar project. Company toppers, however, decided to drop their project and throw in with 20th-Fox and its CinemaScope, thus opening the way to standardization for the industry. Loew's early in the year was planning to make two pictures in CinemaScope.

Todd-A. O.

Another wide-screen method was revealed early in 1953 by Todd-A. O. Corp., which will handle a single lens system requiring 65 mm. film and special projectors. Development is tied to the American Optical Co., with pictures to be made by Magna Productions, of which Joseph M. Schenck, late of 20th-Fox, is a principal figure.

Meanwhile, the problem of screen aspect ratio—for years set at 1.33: 1—became increasingly important. Early in the year, announcements of processes included CinemaScope with its 2.66: 1 ratio; Paravision, developed by Paramount, 1.66: 1, while Universal and Columbia's Vitascope entail the use of a 1.85: 1 ratio. And, for the future, both Paramount and Universal contemplate a 2:1 ratio, probably with stereo. Cinerama is even wider than CinemaScope's screen, but its use is to be restricted to a comparatively few theaters.

3-D—Past, Present, Future

EFFECTS OF 3-D ATOM BOMB TOUCHED ALL FILM BRANCHES

By VERA BERCH GUNZBURG
Executive Vice-President, Natural Vision Corp.

THE ATOM BOMB OF 3-D having exploded over the entire motion picture industry, its far reaching effects are now being analyzed by every production, exhibition and distribution company in the business.

I am now willing to drop any pretense of false modesty and say that I am proud to be part of the Natural Vision Corp. because if it had not been for NV, this bomb would not have gone off. My husband, M. L. Gunzburg, my brother-in-law, Dr. Julian Gunzburg, and a small group of fine technicians were all participants in the birth pangs of this mighty contribution.

MRS. GUNZBURG

At the same time, a special vote of thanks must go to Arch Oboler, whose courage in producing the first feature film in 3-D, "Bwana Devil," using Natural Vision, was the modus operandi for this forerunner of a revolution in our industry.

There seems no point in recapping the historical past of 3-dimensional movies. We are all familiar with the very early pioneers and with the later use by M-G-M of the red-green system of Audioskopiks. But then comes the great hiatus from 1936 to 1952, when "Bwana Devil" opened. Briefly, that takes care of the past.

The present is now with us. From off the shelves, out of the warehouses, and from the mental past of our industry brains, has come a renascence of excitement in processes that will approach or simulate 3-dimension. At the same time, thanks to Cinerama, there has been an upsurge of interest in big screen or peripheral vision for production and exhibition. Most of us remember well the use of big screen, as far back as "The Big Trail."

I confess myself incapable of estimating exactly how many pictures have been announced for "immediate" production. Or how many "new" techniques have been unveiled, or hinted at.

Suffice it to say that, for our purposes, we at Natural Vision said we could do it, we did it, and will continue to demonstrate that commercially correct 3-D is with us to stay. At the present time, United Artists is distributing "Bwana Devil," and Warner Bros. has announced that "House of Wax" will be released in April, both filmed in Natural Vision. Columbia is currently shooting "Fort Ti" in NV. We will shortly have eight complete units for production in Natural Vision. With that number of units, we are capable of supplying equipment for no less than 20 feature pictures this year.

The Polaroid Corp., manufacturer of the viewers used in 3-D, have recently increased its production program, and now appear capable of amply supplying the demands of exhibitors and distributors. Natural Vision is the exclusive world-wide distributor of Polaroid viewers.

I am constantly asked: "Will we ever have true 3-dimension without glasses or their equivalent?" Our best advice is that it is remotely possible that the future will see 3-D without glasses, but not today. It is more likely that audiences will come to accept, enjoy and desire the glasses.

What does the future hold? I like to think that the perfect wedding will be between true 3-D, as exemplified by Natural Vision, and big-screen, as in CinemaScope.

I also think there will be some—and I repeat, some — standardization in exhibition. Standardization comes from use. Just as we at Natural Vision originated the system of filming in 3-D, we realized at the same time that if exhibitors were to make money off our process, there had to be a correct and economical method of exhibition and projection.

The Motion Picture Research Council recently described the package put together by the Natural Vision Theater Equipment Corp. as "the best." We utilized the 5,500-foot reels and magazines manufactured by the Wenzel Projector Co. of Chicago. Our technicians worked out the adaptation of the Selsyn motors for an electrical interlock. The same goes for the use of the Staticmaster brush, and the blower fans to cool the Polaroid filters. In brief, we made every effort to put together a projection kit, using existing equipment to the best advantage of all concerned.

20,000,000 readers are eagerly awaiting the first appearance of Mike Hammer, their favorite "hard guy" detective! The greatest pre-sold stories ever to reach the screen! AND MORE TO COME FROM THE SAME AUTHOR!

Some of this equipment is in short supply. But the supply is meeting the demand. Booths are being equipped for a maximum of $750. Screens from Walker American are being shipped all over America. And after exhibitors have used this new screen for 3-D projection, they leave it in for their regular "flat" picture projection. There is no fabulous charge or change required. Natural Vision Theater Equipment Corp. is working now to meet the demand.

There are occasional doubts on the part of exhibitors who are worried about the supply of viewers. We have never been late nor short in supply on any booking. No picture has been held up for lack of Polaroid viewers that were ordered in time and confirmed by us. And this is the way it will always be. If we confirm to an exhibitor, then we will deliver—and on time.

We have chosen the words "Natural Vision" for our trade name because it is completely accurate. Our system duplicates the physiology of the human eye.

As a woman, proud of her appearance and determined to look my best both at home and in the theater, I have heard it said that women will not like the idea of wearing glasses. I say this is not true. These viewers actually enhance the appearance of women, as well as men, who have been educated to wearing glasses in their daily lives. The Polaroid viewers used in 3-D impose no burden.

Technical improvement in 3-D has jumped. We are keeping ahead of the field and will continue to do so.

The Story of Cinerama

WALLER'S THREE-HEADED CAMERA STARTED AN INDUSTRY EVOLUTION

CINERAMA was invented 15 years ago by Fred Waller. After various backers had tried, without success, to launch the new motion picture medium which photographs with a three-headed camera and utilizes three projection machines to throw the image on a huge curved screen, the process came to the attention of Lowell Thomas.

Thomas sensed greatness in Cinerama which gives the audience a feeling of being in the action and he undertook to bring it to the screen. Toward this end he called upon the services of Merian C. Cooper who already had many production "firsts" in his record. After studying Cinerama for four months Cooper believed he knew how to make it work practically in a theater operation, something no one else had accomplished.

During 1952 he flew to New York on 23 out of 27 weekends, putting in a 36-hour working day on each trip. With Robert L. Bendick he edited the European section of the film that already had been shot. He then devised a simple dramatic prologue for Lowell Thomas and took two solid months off to produce or co-direct the second half.

On the night of September 30, 1952 the demonstration film, "This Is Cinerama," opened at the Broadway Theatre, New York, and began a sellout record which is expected to pass the $2,000,000 mark in this single theatre.

The screen credits of "This Is Cinerama" record that it is a Lowell Thomas and Merian C. Cooper Cinerama Presentation, produced by Merian C. Cooper and Robert L. Bendick.

STEREO PICTURES MUST BECOME MORE THAN A CIRCUS NOVELTY

By ARCH OBOLER
Producer of "Bwana Devil"

PROPHECY IS AN EASY ART, since generally the prophet, at the date of accounting, is much too dead to be called to task.

However, since the prophecies of which I speak are going to happen in a very near tomorrow, I don't particularly expect to be supporting a tombstone, hence, gentlemen call me to account!

First, I foresee that the first 3-D motion picture to follow "Bwana Devil" into the theaters, will be jumping with what I call "three-dementia." Everything will be leaping madly off the screen. This is a great temptation in making a three dimensional picture, having objects, from bosoms to zombies, sticking out of the screen into space.

OBOLER

But, gentlemen of production, this is a false path. False because if audiences begin to look upon three dimensional pictures simply as a circus, the law of diminishing returns can quickly catch up with the entire advance. For circuses are not a weekly habit; the trick once seen suffices for a year!

I do not mean to say that these excitement devices of bringing action off the screen should be completely deleted from forthcoming three-dimensional motion pictures; I simply mean that there is a great danger in overdoing the spectacular. For the spectacular becomes the ordinary very quickly once it has become familiar.

I am reminded of horror plays on radio; we quickly found that the law of diminishing returns caught up with us when we tried to compound horror on horror. The audiences simply began to turn the dials. Not that they were frightened. Simply bored.

All of you are familiar with similar experiences in the horror motion pictures; at first it was Frankenstein alone, then Dracula, then Frankenstein and Dracula, then Frankenstein, Dracula and the Wolfman. And soon there wasn't room enough on the screen for all the horror men, but there was plenty of room in the empty theater seats.

Three dimension, as ideally used, then, is a frame through which the audience looks into reality. Hyperstereo, that is stereo photography, carried to an extreme, with objects poking through the frame of the screen in a distorted manner, is a special effects touch to be used with discretion.

I underline this because I believe that three dimensions in motion pictures can be more than today's bonanza at the box office; it can be a bright financial stabilizer tomorrow and tomorrow to the business.

But there must be self-policing in the industry re: 3-D; above all a sense of personal responsibility.

For example, I do not believe that it helps the industry or the future of three dimension at the box office to lead an audience to believe that it is seeing a full feature 3-D picture when actually all that is screening are bits and pieces of three-dimension experiments. I do not believe it helps the industry to take amateur type 3-D movies and show them in the professional theater at regular prices. This sort of quick dollar not only harms the particular exhibitor, but it ruins the taste of the ticket buyer for future three-dimensional pictures.

I am told that at a recent showing, for full admission prices, of a collected group of three-dimensional shorts, an irate ticket buyer, after seeing that he had been short-changed by less than a full feature picture, walked up and down in front of the theater shouting to the passersby to stay out of this gyp theater.

Let not the motion picture industry gyp itself out of a three dimensional financial future.

More Than A Novelty

3-D SEEN DESTINED TO BECOME AN INTEGRAL PART OF FILMS

By SOL LESSER

President, Sol Lesser Productions, and Vice-President of Stereo-Cine

RIGHT NOW IT IS THE GREAT NOVELTY of 3-D that has fired the imagination of film makers and film goers alike.

The prospect of seeing musicals, spectacles, super-Westerns, romantic dramas, jungle thrillers, swashbucklers, real-life adventures, science fantasies, outdoor action epics, chiller-dillers and travelogues in three dimensions on a theater screen is as exciting to the industry that will produce them as it is to the millions who will patronize them.

Fortunately, 3-D is more than a novelty. It is an innovation, destined to become as permanent and integral a part of motion pictures as sound. The horizons revealed by this added dimension on film are limitless and challenging. Today Hollywood is rushing to satisfy the noisy demand for anything on celluloid, so long as it's three dimensional. Tomorrow, after immediate orders are filled, the studios will settle down to exploring 3-D's enormous possibilities.

LESSER

When exploration begins, it will be along two fronts: artistic and technical. Since technical advances in Hollywood customarily precede the artistic, there is no reason to suppose they will not continue to do so where 3-D is concerned.

One of the first developments to expect is a standardization of three dimensional systems. In their present scramble, the studios are turning up new 3-D processes, equipment and accessories daily. A good lot of these will be junked or mothballed. The remaining systems will be practical, versatile, inexpensive, and available to the industry at large.

Aimed at becoming one of the latter is Stereo-Cine, a method of three dimensional photography perfected by Raphael Wolff, advertising and industrial film executive. Stereo-Cine's cameras and devices are accessible to producers on a non-exclusive basis. The process is being used by Sol Lesser Productions, in filming "The Three-D Follies," a five-unit variety show in color nearing completion.

Stereo-Cine is described as "a perfected method of light-polarization photography, brought to perfection by absolute space-control stereoscopy." It is the result of four years of development by Wolff and his associates.

The contest between polarized three dimension and its curved-screen opponent appears weighted in favor of the former. No compromise seems possible. Optics experts insist that the illusion of a third dimension on the screen can be obtained only with the assistance of Polaroid eye glasses. Continued improvements in polarized stereoscopy are certain to remove whatever mild objections have been raised to glasses. The relatively low installation and operational costs of polarized 3-D will settle the issue.

There is a sound psychological reason for the tremendous reception being accorded three dimensional pictures. Action on the 3-D screens seems to transform audiences from spectators into participants. Responses to the Stereo-Techniques 3-dimension variety film, which is being roadshowed throughout the country, confirm this. Cards testifying that objects "seemed close enough to touch" and "gave the impression of solidity and proximity" are received after every performance.

On that basis, there is going to be a mighty to-do when fans experience their first 3-D contact with Marilyn Monroe, Lex Barker, Lili St. Cyr, et al. And the demand for flights into outer space, expeditions around the world, explorations beneath the sea, and adventures near and far by means of the three dimensional screen can only increase as time goes on.

So with a rosy future for 3-D pictures practically guaranteed, Hollywood is on the threshold of what may well be its greatest era.

Unlike previous technological revolutions in the film industry, 3-D threatens no one. On the contrary, the new techniques, equip-

Every player can look forward to a lively new public reception when he makes his debut in 3-D. Writers, directors, producers and cameramen will find endless opportunities to flex their talents. The extent to which picture makers can exploit 3-D is limited only by their imaginations. Every location will attain heightened values on the three dimensional screen. Every bit of action, every change of scene, every nuance of expression will compel an intensified interest because of the added dimension.

Three-D, even now, has demonstrated its magic ability to infuse every foot of film with unsurpassed eye appeal. This is what Hollywood needs and audiences will buy.

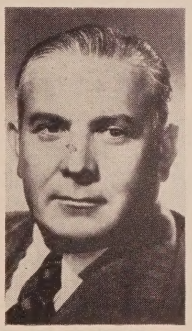
CinemaScope: Industry Boon

MASS PILGRIMAGE OF EXHIBS. ATTENDED HOLLYWOOD SHOWINGS

By SPYROS P. SKOURAS
President, 20th-Fox

IN THE HISTORY of the motion picture industry, there has never before been such a mass pilgrimage as that made recently to Hollywood by exhibitors from not only every part of the United States but from such distant lands as Australia, New Zealand, the Middle East, Great Britain, France, Germany, and many South American countries.

They came for an historic event — the advent of CinemaScope, the latest and truly one of the greatest innovations in an industry that has brought to flower in the interests of entertainment and service to humanity every gift that progressive science could devise for it.



SKOURAS

This latest gift of science is based upon a lens invented by Professor Henri Chretien, a member of the Optical Institute of France and honorary professor at Sorbonne University in Paris. Under an agreement recently made with Twentieth Century-Fox for a 10-year period, Professor Chretien has re-established an optical factory in France for the manufacture of these lenses and other lenses will be manufactured by leading optical firms in other parts of the world.

All those who witnessed the demonstrations in Hollywood — and this included exhibitors, producers, writers, directors, hundreds of newspapermen and business and financial leaders — acclaimed it unhesitatingly as the greatest medium of improvement to the screen to date and were literally overwhelmed by its effect. CinemaScope, with its impressive stereophonic sound, and with the new curved miracle-mirror screen, can hardly be compared in impact to any other medium of entertainment.

From the reactions to these initial demonstrations, it may be truly said that never before have we, of the motion picture industry, had an opportunity to present entertainment so realistically, with such magnitude of expression and with a good, third-dimensional illusion giving a sense of audience participation just as impressively in the small theaters as in the large ones. All agreed that it will provide an opportunity for the theaters to recover prestige and patronage.

It might be appropriate to recall some of these comments.

Producers, for example, had this to say:

DORE SCHARY: "It's wonderful and startling."

JESSE LASKY: "I studied it very carefully and liked it so well that I am placing my order for the new lenses and will shoot 'The Big Brass Band' in CinemaScope."

JERRY WALD: "The greatest boost the picture business has gotten since it discovered sex. There's a Chinese proverb that says, 'A journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step.' CinemaScope is a step toward opening new horizons for the film industry."

Even more important were the comments of exhibitors — the men with their finger on the public pulse:

FRED J. SCHWARTZ: "How many CinemaScopes can I get, and how fast?"

SI FABIAN (Warners-Stanley Circuit): "CinemaScope is the greatest standard for motion picture entertainment in the market. I sum it all up by saying it's terrific."

JOHN H. HARRIS (Harris Amusement Co.): "This is the answer to TV. It makes you feel you are there. It's not a novelty. I was as enthused over the intimate scenes as I was over the spectacular."

ED ROWLEY (United Theatres, Dallas): "Think this is the greatest thing since sound. It is just terrific."

LOUIS SCHINE (Schine Circuit): "I've seen many great changes and improvements in the motion picture business. To me, CinemaScope is the greatest thing since the coming of sound."

M. A. LIGHTMAN (Malco Theatres): "Just as vital as sound. I've already ordered the first CinemaScope installation in the South."

JACK BLUMENFELD (Blumenfeld Theaatres): "I think the scope of CinemaScope is tremendous. The public will take to it terrifically."

GEORGE MANN (Redwood Theatres): "All I can say is that the new process will increase seats 25 to 100 per cent."

GEORGE DUNLAP (M-G-M Theatres, Buenos Aires): "Wonderful! Really Wonderful!"

H. J. FITZGERALD (Wisconsin Amusement Co.): "This has the same constructive impact that sound had and that unquestionably means new horizons for motion picture theaters. CinemaScope is completely revolutionary and a tremendous improvement."

Such universal acclaim from the men who are on the front lines of our industry has seldom before been given so freely.

3 In Production

Earl Sponable and I first saw CinemaScope on December 18 last, in Paris. In the latter part of January we made it available to our studio for tests. By March 18, our studio had already started the production of three pictures in CinemaScope, including "The Robe" from Lloyd C. Douglas' world-renowned book; "How to Marry a Millionaire" and "Twelve Mile Reef," in which last-named picture, CinemaScope will be used for the first time to show under-water sequences, and had changed over our studio facilities and techniques to conform to the new medium. By virtue of this, we were able to include in the awe-inspiring demonstrations, which began on that date, actual scenes from the films in process of CinemaScope production.

This is one of the most remarkable feats in all the annals of industrial and artistic endeavor and the achievement of our production, creative and technical people won the unqualified admiration of all those who saw the results.

After such an accomplishment, no one had the slightest doubt about the greatness of this medium or of our Studio's ability to adapt itself to CinemaScope's methods and styles.

On returning from these demonstrations, I am full of gratitude that it has been the privilege of this corporation to restore the morale of our industry and quicken its pulse by showing how it can widen the horizons and increase the enjoyment of motion picture audiences.

In production, since CinemaScope requires no studio structural changes or changes in equipment, I have been given assurances by the studio that substantial reductions in production costs eventually will be effected through this medium. No other method in the field today can make this claim. This is of profound importance.

By the end of the year, we hope to have sufficient camera lenses available for all the producers who would like to produce in this medium and sufficient theater equipment from the theater suppliers we are marshalling to serve the exhibitors. In exhibition, the CinemaScope package adds two elements greatly needed in a majority of theaters, improved sound and a more brilliant screen, factors of vital importance to the moviegoing public and, therefore, to the exhibitors.

We are assured that by December 31, we will have over 1,500 CinemaScope sets ready to be installed in theaters of the United States and over 500 sets for all principal cities of the world. Thereafter, beginning with the month of January, 1954, we are also assured that we can install as many as 1,000 sets per month throughout the United States. Thousands of requests for equipment have already been received from all over the United States and all parts of the world, and hundreds of commitments have already been made.

Naturally, CinemaScope promises accelerated activity in all branches of our industry, the theater equipment and supply branches, as well as the theaters. It will give a new stimulus to everyone engaged in the production, distribution and exhibition of motion pictures and to the public.

Twentieth Century-Fox has embraced CinemaScope with unreserved faith as a means of combining the creative ability of our industry with scientific achievement to present finer pictures in a compelling new medium. We are so convinced of its greatness that we have staked our reputation and prestige upon it by deciding to produce all of our future pictures in CinemaScope and in color beginning with "The Robe." Twenty pictures have now been scheduled for CinemaScope.

Production Lineup

In addition to "The Robe," which is now almost completed, we are producing in CinemaScope, among others, the following pictures: "How to Marry a Millionaire," which is an adaptation of "The Greeks Had a Word for It"; "Twelve Mile Reef," "Prince Valiant," Irving Berlin's "There's No Business Like Show Business," "The Story of Demetrius," which will be a sequel to "The Robe"; "King of the Khyber Rifles," "The Egyptian," "Sir Walter Raleigh," "Queen of Sheba" and "The Story of Jezebel."

Meanwhile, the great attractions we have produced and announced for release for the present screen will be ready between now and October in such fashion as to cause no disruption of theater operations during the period of transition.

Three Elements

CinemaScope has three main elements. One is the Anamorphoscopic lens used on both cameras and projectors. The camera lens, with its new attachment, is enabled to compress and record a scene of tremendously increased panoramic scope and with greatly improved perspective. This extended scene is then projected by means of an otherwise standard projector, equipped only with a complementary lens, into a dramatically enlarged picture on the screen. The new picture is over twice as wide as the familiar one and a little higher. When images and action are portrayed on this screen, the effect is breathtaking and the spectator, accustomed to ordinary pictures, has the new experience of feeling that he is participating in the action on the screen.

The second element is stereophonic sound which our engineers have developed to a point where it will be ideally suited for this system. It will heighten the illusion of realism because the sound system is so arranged that the sound always seems to be associated directly with the person speaking, or singing, or whatever other source may be involved. This is accomplished by using three separate sound tracks on the film and through separate groups of loudspeakers appropriately arranged at the center and at each side of the screen. Each speaker is supplied with its appropriate sound from its own sound track through its own amplifier, and the beauty and faithfulness of the sound so reproduced goes far beyond anything in the theater today.

The third element, the Miracle-Mirror screen, is the result of years of painstaking development work on the part of many scientists and engineers.

The physicist has contributed a careful study of the behavior of light . . . the chemist has contributed a knowledge of organic plastics and flameproofing methods . . . the mechanical engineer has contributed his knowledge of controls of manufacturing processes, and the architect has given us information as to what part of the theater the audience requires light to view the motion picture most effectively.

The putting together of all this information and know-how has provided a screen material whose surface is made up of a multitude of tiny, curved reflectors, each one curved in such a way that the light from the projection machine is reflected directly to the audience and none of it lost to the floor, ceiling and sides of the theater where it does no good.

By using this ordinarily wasted light, a picture twice as bright as produced by the ordinary white screen is presented to the theater-goer from the same amount of light in the projector. Alternatively, the size of the screen may be doubled and still have a picture of correct brightness without any change in light.

A fact of tremendous importance regarding this screen is that it is so constructed that it will serve equally as well as the ordinary screen for the projection of pictures of the flat type, for third-dimensional films and others with the exception of Cinerama. This is the only screen that can meet this requirement.

Demonstrations of the system will be resumed in the principal cities of the United States before July 1 and, subsequently, in the principal cities of the rest of the world by September.

Within a short time, it is hoped that every exhibitor, everywhere, at home and abroad, will have seen CinemaScope in actual operation.

In each principal city, outside New York, we will have the demonstrations in two different theaters, In New York, the demonstrations will be held at the Roxy Theater with a seating capacity of 5,872; at the Mayfair Theater, capacity 1,736; the Nemo Theater, capacity 931 (or the Normandy Theater, capacity 587).

CinemaScope will be demonstrated in the small as well as the large theaters in order to enable those who see it to observe its overwhelming effect in the smaller theater as well as the larger one. That is why we are having the demonstrations in diverse types of theaters.

Those who have viewed CinemaScope find that it has other remarkable advantages and simplicity, not only in the projection of spectacle pictures, outdoor films, and other pictures of a spacious nature, but that it gives a sensation of greater reality to scenes of an intimate character.

We regard CinemaScope as bringing about not only a technological revolution but providing a new artistic stimulus to our industry. Therefore, in lending out our lenses to the studios, however, a most important policy will be followed in order that CinemaScope will come to be known by the public as the hallmark of quality. We will make our lenses available to the other studios only for films dealing with important subject matter. This is in keeping with the policy we ourselves are following so that the public will have confidence that when it sees a picture in CinemaScope, it will be seeing the best.

We want to help recreate the habit of the public of going regularly to see good movies just as it did in the earlier days when the stars attracted it regardless of the subject matter on the screen. We can do this by using CinemaScope for subject matter of a magnitude and importance in keeping with CinemaScope itself.

Again, let me repeat that we feel that CinemaScope will be a boon to all elements of our industry because it will have the advantages described in this statement and, at the same time, will encourage better screen material and finer production in keeping with its importance so that our industry can go forward in its mission of entertaining and serving humanity.

INDUSTRY ATTITUDE CHANGING AS FEAR OF COMPETITION WANES

By LOUIS PELEGRINE
Staff Writer, THE FILM DAILY

THE ATTITUDE of the motion picture industry toward television underwent a marked change last year. The fear of video competition that once had the industry almost in a state of panic was far less pronounced, and there developed a widely held view that TV could very well be utilized to serve the interests of the industry.

The change of attitude was reflected in the statement of Adolph Zukor on the 50th anniversary of his association with the film industry that in his belief by the end of 1953 "it will have been demonstrated more clearly that television is logically more of a partner than of a competitor with the picture business, including the theaters," and that "in order that each may be healthy and prosperous the two businesses need each other."

The optimism of Paramount's board chairman was echoed by Paul Raibourn, vice-president of the company in charge of budget and planning and its chief of television activities.

Decline in the industry's fear of television was explained largely by the fact that the emergence of Cinerama, developments in the field of third dimension and prospects of other important developments on the scientific side of the business gave birth to new hopes for the future of the business and proved a source of encouragement to producers, distributors and exhibitors alike. As Raibourn noted, these developments had the further result of waking up the people in the film industry, lifting up their spirit and morale and rebuilding their confidence.

Also seen as helping to lessen the fear of TV was the industry's adoption of a new approach to its problems in 1952 and its exercise of powers of self-analysis. "The thinking of the industry has changed for the better," as Raibourn put it.

More Stations On Air

Oddly enough, the increased optimism in the industry's future came in the face of a growing boom in television last year. The beginning of December found 117 television stations on the air and approximately 20,000,000 sets in use, with billings of the four networks totalling more than $143,000,000 up to the opening week of November.

The year saw the sale of 6,000,000 television sets. The Radio and Television Manufacturers Association looked for an equal number of sets to be sold this year. Dr. W. R. G. Baker, vice-president and general manager of the electronics division of General Electric, went so far as to predict that 53,000,000 sets would be expected to be in operation by 1960.

Prospects of a rise in television competition developed in 1952 when on April 11 the Federal Communications Commission terminated the freeze on the construction of new video stations. The freeze had been in force since May 6, 1948. The FCC gave the green light to the construction of 2,053 stations in 1,291 communities all over the nation. The commission's action permitted the expansion of UHF and VHF television in this country and its possessions. The FCC's order recognized the value of TV in the field of education by making 242 channels available to institutions of learning. One hundred and sixty-nine new commercial stations had won FCC sanction at the end of 1952.

Theater TV Advances

The potentialities of theater television were more extensively demonstrated last year. There were several notable promotions engineered by Theater Network Television headed by Nathan L. Halpern. One was the telecast of the Jersey Joe Walcott-Rocky Marciano world heavyweight championship fight, which drew a total paid attendance of 120,000 at 50 theaters in 30 cities, the gross running to $400,000. The other marked the first theater television presentation of an operatic performance. The opera was "Carmen," the telecast of which was piped from the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House into 31 theaters in 21 cities. The event attracted an audience of 50,000 and accounted for a gross of about $125,000.

A new source of profit for theater operators was revealed when Theater Network Television entered into an arrangement with James Lees & Sons for the telecast of a sales convention of the carpet manufacturing

Developments in Color

RECORD NUMBER OF FEATURES TINTED IN '52: MORE THIS YEAR

By LOUIS PELEGRINE
Staff Writer, The Film Daily

AS NEVER BEFORE color last year was looked to as an instrument for improving the fortunes of the motion picture industry. Since television shows were still in black and white producers and distributors capitalized on the use of color, which they believed to be a powerful factor in higher grosses.

The result was a new record in the production of tinted pictures. It was evident that the call of Dr. Herbert T. Kalmus, president and general manager of Technicolor, for all-out use of color to aid the financial status of the industry was bearing fruit.

That the employment of color was not even greater than it was was due to the fact that facilities for the production of color films were inadequate to meet the demand despite their having been increased considerably compared with the year before. The use of color at the year's end was limited only by the plant capacity for turning out prints. Trouble in obtaining committments for color cameras and processing film was believed to be holding down the number of color films.

The evidence of the greater reliance placed on color by producers in the quest for bigger box office returns was conclusive.

Consider that of an estimated 123 major productions of all sorts scheduled at the end of 1952 for release this year solely by the Big Five—M-G-M, RKO Radio, Paramount, 20th-Fox and Warners—no less than 71, or nearly 60 per cent, were listed as tinters. The 71 were distributed among the five companies as follows: M-G-M, 15 out of 30; RKO, 11 out of 20; Paramount, 15 out of 25; 20th-Fox, 13 out of 24; Warner Bros., 17 out of 24.

Consider, too, that an estimated total of 100 feature films was made by the major studios and independent producers in Technicolor alone in 1952. In 1951 a record 76 Technicolor films were turned out. That figure compared with 70 in 1950. That the number of Technicolor productions had increased 43 per cent over a two-year period was held to be a clear indication of how heavily the film makers were banking on color as one means of countering the mounting competition of television and of drawing patrons to the box offices of the nation in greater numbers.

The production of films in Technicolor is slated to climb still higher, so great is the demand for color. Dr. Kalmus left no doubt which way the wind was blowing in the field of color when he informed his company's stockholders at their annual meeting that the number of features to be made in Technicolor in 1953 would substantially exceed the 1952 total. It was pointed out by him that every Technicolor customer was calling for a considerably larger amount of Technicolor footage for 1953. Such was the demand for color that he had no doubt that the Technicolor capacity of 600,000,000 feet that had been set for 1953 would be sold out long before the end of 1952.

Nothing could give a clearer picture of what color has come to mean to both producer and exhibitor as a box office stimulant than the fact that Technicolor last year found itself faced with the necessity of boosting its 35 mm. print capacity to the point where volume would be expected to reach nearly 800,000,000 feet some time this year. The company's plans had provided for an increase in capacity from 400,000,000-odd feet per year to about 600,000,000 feet for 1953. It was said by Dr. Kalmus that "an appropriation for expansion of probably less than $1,000,000" would make it possible for the company to achieve the capacity of nearly 800,000,000 feet, which would compare with the record-busting 392,736,397 feet of positive footage shipped in 1951.

The heavy increase in Technicolor's positive print capacity mean that films made in color will have the advantage of being more quickly available for wide distribution than ever before.

Technicolor's dollars-and-cents showing last year provided a good indication of the mounting importance of color as a box-office magnet. The company's net profit climbed to $2,069,206, which compared with $1,918,537 the preceding year. Sales for 1952 reached a high of $33,020,559. This figure represented a hefty increase over sales of $28,896,344 racked up the year before.

Early this year Dr. Kalmus conveyed the happy news to the company's stockholders in the company's annual report for 1952 that the emergence of third dimension and the wide-angle process would mean an increasing demand for Technicolor services and products.

Technicolor announced during the year that it had decided to discontinue further work on the Geer color television tube to which it had acquired rights. Dr. Kalmus explained that the company was compelled to take that step because research on the tube undertaken in cooperation with RCA and the Stanford Research Institute of Stanford University had "not turned out successfully."

With the demand for Technicolor greater than at any time the company increased its auxiliary camera equipment so that facilities might be available for simultaneously photographing 15 three-strip feature productions in the process.

In an attempt to meet the demand for color Technicolor last year began the installation of equipment to operate under the Ansco or Eastman Kodak color process, either completely or in combination with Technicolor printing.

Warners last year continued to devote a good deal of its technical resources to the perfection of WarnerColor which had been worked out in collaboration with Eastman Kodak, on whose new negative-positive process is based. Many productions on the Warner schedule were listed for production by this color process.

Last year brought reports that various processes offering "one-strip color," as contrasted to Technicolor's three-strip process, were being perfected. The "one-strip" process was hailed as making possible newsreels in color. It was understood that such newsreels were under contemplation.

Work by 20th Century-Fox on lenticulated color progressed in 1952 to the point where the studio was able to set plans for the production of its first feature film in the additive process. Lenticulated color film can be processed by any laboratory. The company was reported to have solved the problem of light intensity which had proved a stumbling block to the use of the process.

Early this year Eastman Kodak was revealed to be making plans to place on the market its improved tungsten-balance color film. The stock was said to need less illumination. Another advantage claimed for the film was that negative and positive could be processed by any laboratory possessing the proper equipment. Pathe, Consolidated and Warners were reported as already having installed the required equipment.

As 1952 expired it was understood that DuPont was making much headway on color development. The company was in the midst of tests of its new color negative and safety stock, before the development of which the firm had only a color positive stock. It was expected that the new color negative and safety stock would appear on the market in Spring of this year.

Pathe Laboratories perfected and launched its new Pathecolor during the year. In the annual report of Chesapeake Industries (formerly Pathe Industries), the parent company, President William C. MacMillen, Jr., told stockholders that Pathe Laboratories had reached a position where it could "provide its motion picture and television customers with complete laboratory services to process both black-and-white and color prints in both 16mm and 35mm gauge at both its East Coast and West Coast plants."

A new financing plan that was designed to place the company in a position to make the most of its opportunities in the fast-expanding field of color motion pictures was adopted last year by the stockholders of the Cinecolor Corp. The plan had been proposed by the Cinecolor management. The California Corporation Commissioner placed his stamp of approval on it.

In August legal control of Cinecolor passed into the hands of the Donner Corp. of Philadelphia through the latter's purchase of the balance of an offering of $452,350 of five per cent subordinated sinking fund debentures with common stock purchase warrants attached. The Donner purchase marked the completion of the new financing plan.

In Republic's annual report to stockholders President Herbert J. Yates disclosed that the company in 1952 was engaged in expanding its facilities to handle more Trucolor printing to enable it "to take advantage of the definite trend towards color pictures." He said that "as more and more pictures are made in color there will be a decrease in the amount of black and white printing." Yates added that "in line with this trend" Republic each year is producing "more pictures in Trucolor-by-Consolidated."

Whatever may have been said of the motion picture industry last year one thing was certain: it was not afflicted with color blindness.

Foreign Films in The U. S.

PROMOTION AND DUBBING SEEN INCREASING 1953 SALES

By J. C. PRIORE
FILM DAILY Staff Writer

EASILY, THE MOST outstanding event in 1952 in the foreign film field was the well received and highly applauded "Salute To Italian Films Week" which was launched in the early part of October. Planned and carried off in first rate style the weeklong festivities generated considerable attention, brought together with their American colleagues, many key figures of the Italian industry.

Also on hand was a representative collection of notable artists to decorate the various official functions and be on hand for the special series of screenings which took place at the Little Carnegie Theater under the sponsorship of Winthrop Aldrich. Specially invited audiences, and, in certain cases the general public, viewed a half-dozen new Italian productions.

Considerable countrywide interest in the "Salute" brought requests for similar follow up activity in the major key cities where Italian imports have gained a following. Delegation of producers, Government industry officials, directors, writers and actors also visited Hollywood.

Facts and figures available from official sources which paint in the impressive sections of the financial picture that derives from the exhibition of foreign product in this country shows that rentals have steadily mounted to a point last year that was four times greater than the first available postwar figure; namely the take for 1951 was put at an all time high of $11,000,000, compared with $3,000,000 in 1947. Rentals for foreign product rose in 1948 to $5,000,000, and declined in the following two years to $4,000,000 each.

Viewed as an important factor in bringing widespread attention and increasing interest in the film from abroad was the lengthy and triumphant case of Joseph Burstyn's "The Miracle." Halted in its first New York booking, the picture was withdrawn. But that was not the end of the affair. It became a cause celebre aroused judicial ire, lost out, finally went to the Supreme Court which held that films were to be considered part of the press. This High Court action fairly threw the censorship setup as it exists, completely out of whack and opened the way for more considered viewpoints and standards.

Operating in this country, the distributor and importer of foreign product will very likely find the International Public Registry of Films a convenient and valuable unit.

Set up in Rome early in 1953 by the International Federation of Film Producers Associations, the bureau was established to define ownership of films on an international basis and to facilitate and give security to cinematic exchange, in addition to obtaining credit in foreign exploitation and determine terms of ownership in the matter of author's rights.

Organization will also prepare a year book listing full details. Thus will a matter of considerable concern to the handler of overseas product be reduced when there are questions in view.

There will definitely be increased sales and more widespread public attention during 1953, for foreign product, largely due to the potential of the American market for the dubbed film. And this does not mean, as it has, predominantly, heretofore, the English version. They will be American version. And in this matter once more reference will be made to the IFE setup. First effort from IFE will be the American-ized version of "Anna," with Silvana Mangano and Vittorio Grassman, which was translated into a new soundtrack by Dr. Mauro Zambuto. Latter is a Continental technical authority on dubbing into necessary patois. IFE, to further its project to release top Italian product to the market for dubbed versions, has opened its own New York studio for the purpose.

Past year's offering were a goodly crop. Top numbers presented included "The Amazing Monsieur Fabre," "Beauty and the Devil," "The Berliner," "Father's Dilemma," "The Flowers of St. Francis," "The Force of Destiny," "Leonardo Da Vinci," "Life Begins Tomorrow," "The Savage Triangle," "Two Cents Worth of Hope," "Forbidden Games," "The White Line."

Upcoming numbers include: "Justice Is Done," and "Fear and Desire," from Joseph Burstyn; "Anna," "Bellissima," "Paul and Frances," "Girls of the Piazza D'Espagna," "Times Gone By," "Young Caruso," "Don Camillo" and "Pope of Peace" from IFE.

Twentieth-Fox Inaugurates ...a policy of confidence

By CHESTER B. BAHN

AT A TIME when it is obviously highly desirable, perhaps urgently needed, Twentieth Century-Fox inaugurates a production policy that dramatically spells confidence not only in the good motion picture but in the commercial theater which is best suited for its profitable exhibition.

The reference, of course, is to the recent disclosure by Darryl F. Zanuck, the company's vice-president in charge of production, that the 20th-Fox studio will turn out more high-cost, top pictures this year than at any time in its history. That seven Technicolor productions alone will represent an investment of more than $20,000,000 makes it crystal-clear 20th-Fox is backing its market judgment with one of the largest (if not the largest), Hollywood bankrolls of 1953.

Over at

U-I

They have

4-D . . .

DEPENDABILITY... Picture after picture, month after month, during every season of the year, U-I delivers consistent money makers; pictures loaded with those production values that exhibitors now know are "must" requirements to bring every possible customer into their theatres.

DRIVE... Work never stops on a U-I picture until every possible selling angle has been exploited to the fullest... until every promotion technique has been enlisted to bring it as forcefully as possible to the attention of the public.

DARING . . . U-I boldly strikes out with new themes, new faces, new ideas . . . aiming for and capturing new audiences as well as boosting the attendance of "regulars."

DETERMINATION . . . We are determined to pursue the principle that a big picture is one that makes big profits and our forthcoming product has been made and will be sold with this single principle in mind.

Showmanship

is always the word

around U-I!
